

THE SKELETON
The skeleton is the framework of the body, supporting the soft organs and tissues. It is composed of bones and cartilage. The bones are made of a hard, white, mineralized tissue called bone. The cartilage is a soft, white, fibrous tissue. The skeleton is divided into the axial skeleton (skull, spine, rib cage) and the appendicular skeleton (arms and legs). The axial skeleton is made of 28 bones, and the appendicular skeleton is made of 126 bones. The total number of bones in the human body is 206.

BONES
Bones are made of a hard, white, mineralized tissue called bone. They are composed of organic and inorganic components. The organic component is made of collagen, which gives the bone its flexibility. The inorganic component is made of calcium phosphate, which gives the bone its hardness. Bones are also made of blood vessels and nerves.

JOINTS
Joints are the points where two or more bones meet. They allow for movement of the bones. There are three main types of joints: fibrous joints, cartilaginous joints, and synovial joints. Fibrous joints are made of fibrous tissue. Cartilaginous joints are made of cartilage. Synovial joints are made of a fluid called synovial fluid.

MUSCLES
Muscles are made of muscle tissue. They are responsible for movement of the body. There are three main types of muscles: skeletal muscles, smooth muscles, and cardiac muscles. Skeletal muscles are attached to bones. Smooth muscles are found in the walls of internal organs. Cardiac muscles are found in the heart.

MUSCLE TISSUE
Muscle tissue is made of muscle fibers. These fibers are long and thin. They are surrounded by a layer of connective tissue called the sarcolemma. The muscle fibers are connected to each other by gap junctions. This allows them to contract together.

MUSCLE CONTRACTION
Muscle contraction is the process by which a muscle fiber generates force. It is caused by the interaction of actin and myosin filaments. Actin filaments are thin, and myosin filaments are thick. They are connected by myosin heads. When the myosin heads pull on the actin filaments, the muscle contracts.

MUSCLE METABOLISM
Muscle metabolism is the process by which a muscle fiber generates energy. It is caused by the breakdown of glucose and fatty acids. Glucose is broken down into pyruvate, which is then converted into lactic acid. Fatty acids are broken down into fatty acid chains, which are then converted into acetyl-CoA.

MUSCLE ADAPTATION
Muscle adaptation is the process by which a muscle fiber changes its size and shape in response to exercise. It is caused by the increase in the number of myofibrils and the size of the sarcomere. This allows the muscle to generate more force.
