Thanatourism and Cinematic Representations of Risk Rodanthi Tzanelli, 2016-04-14 In today's world the need to eliminate natural and human made disasters has been at the forefront of national and international socio political agendas The management of risks such as terrorism labour strikes protests and environmental degradation has become pivotal for countries that depend on their economy's tourist sector Indeed there is fear that the end of tourism might be nigh due to inadequate institutional foresight Yet in designing relevant policies to tackle this arts such as that of filmmaking have yet to receive due consideration This book adopts an unorthodox approach to debates about the end of tourism Through twenty first century cinematic narratives of symbolically interconnected risks it considers how art envisages the future of humanity's well being These risks include migration as an infectious disease alien incursions as racialized labour mobilities cyborg rebellion as the fear of post colonial otherness and zombie anthropophagy as the replacement of rooted identities by nomadic lifestyles Such filmic scenarios articulate the futuristic survival of community as the triumph of the technological human over otherness and provide a means to debate societal risks that weave identity politics into unequal mobilities This book will appeal to researchers and students interested in mobilities theory tourism and travel theory film studies and aesthetics globalisation studies race labour and migration

Smoke on the Water Dario Fazzi, 2023-10-31 The U S government military and industry once saw ocean incineration as the safest and most efficient way to dispose of hazardous chemical waste Beginning in the late 1960s toxic chemicals such as PCBs and other harmful industrial byproducts were taken out to sea to be destroyed in specially designed ships equipped with high temperature combustion chambers and smokestacks But public outcry arose after the environmental and health risks of ocean incineration were exposed and the practice was banned in the early 1990s Smoke on the Water traces the rise and fall of ocean incineration showing how a transnational environmental movement tested the limits of U S political and economic power Dario Fazzi examines the anti ocean incineration movement that emerged on both sides of the Atlantic arguing that it succeeded by merging local advocacy with international mobilization He emphasizes the role played at the grassroots level by women migrant workers and other underrepresented groups who were at greatest risk Environmental groups for their part gathered and shared evidence about the harms of at sea incineration building scientific consensus and influencing international debates Smoke on the Water tells the compelling story of a campaign against environmental degradation in which people from marginalized communities took on the might of the U S military industrial complex It offers new insights into the transnational dimensions of environmental regulation the significance of nonstate actors in international history and the making of environmental justice movements
