Course Description:

The grade 12 Dramatic Arts course is aimed at combining the skills learned in grades 9-11 (scripture, role playing, modern theatre, etc.) and begin focusing on the process, creation, execution, and success of theatre. Students will study numerous elements of theatre such as monologuing, music and theatre, critiquing and analyzing theatre, plays, playwriting, and scripts, and finally the culmination of it all: a one-act performance project to celebrate all the students have learned. The 40 level course is designed to be an hands-on application course. Specifically, the course is aimed at providing students ample opportunity to apply the skills they have learned in grades 9-11, and the extension of those skills in grade 12.

General Learning Outcomes:

Making:

DR-M1: The learner develops range tactics for using the tools and techniques of body, mind, and voice in a variety of contexts.

DR-M2: The learner develops range tactics for using elements of drama/theatre in a variety of contexts.

DR-M3: The learner develops range tactics for using a range of dramatic forms and styles.

Creating:

DR-CR1: The learner generates ideas from a variety of sources for creating dramatic theatre.

Rubble Music Abby Anderton, 2019-07-23 As the seat of Hitler's government Berlin was the most frequently targeted city in Germany for Allied bombing campaigns during World War II. Air raids shelled celebrated monuments, left homes uninhabitable and reduced much of the city to nothing but rubble. After the war's end, this apocalyptic landscape captured the imagination of artists, filmmakers, and writers who used the ruins to engage with themes of alienation, disillusionment, and moral ambiguity. In Rubble Music, Abby Anderton explores the classical music culture of postwar Berlin, analyzing archival documents, period sources, and musical scores to identify the sound of civilian suffering after urban catastrophe. Anderton reveals how rubble functioned as a literal, figurative, psychological, and sonic element by examining the resonances of trauma heard in the German musical repertoire after 1945. With detailed explorations of reconstituted orchestral ensembles, opera companies, and radio stations, as well as analyses of performances and compositions that were beyond the reach of the Allied occupiers, Anderton demonstrates how German musicians worked through, cleared away, or built over the debris and devastation of the war.

Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office, 2007 Performing Asian Transnationalisms Amanda Rogers, 2014-09-19 This book makes a significant contribution to interdisciplinary engagements between Theatre Studies and Cultural Geography in its analysis of how theatre articulates transnational geographies of Asian culture and identity. Deploying a geographical approach to transnational culture, Rogers analyses the cross-border relationships that exist within and between Asian American, British East Asian, and South East Asian theatres, investigating the effect of transnationalism on the construction of identity, the development of creative praxis, and the reception of works in different social fields. This book therefore examines how practitioners engage with one another across borders and details the cross-cultural performances, creative opportunities, and political alliances that result. By viewing ethnic minority theatres as part of global rather than simply national cultural fields, Rogers argues that transnational relationships take multiple forms and have varying impetuses that cannot always be equated to diasporic longing for a homeland or as strategically motivated for economic gain. This argument is developed through a series of chapters that examine how different transnational spatialities are produced and reworked through the practice of theatre-making, drawing upon an analysis of rehearsals, performances, festivals, and semi-structured interviews with practitioners. The book extends existing discussions of performance and globalization, particularly through its focus on the multiplicity of transnational spatiality and the networks between English language Asian theatres. Its analysis of spatially extensive relations also contributes to an emerging body of research on creative geographies by situating theatrical praxis in relation to cross-border flows. Performing Asian Transnationalisms demonstrates how performances reflect and rework conventional transnational geographies in imaginative and innovative ways.
