Eureka Gavin Weightman,2015-07-23 Tracing the long pre history of five twentieth century inventions which have transformed our lives Gavin Weightman reveals a fantastic cast of scientists and inspired amateurs whose ingenuity has given us the airplane television bar code personal computer and mobile phone Not one of these inventions can be attributed to a lone genius who experiences a moment of inspiration Nearly all innovations exist in the imagination before they are finally made to work by the hard graft of inventors who draw on the discoveries of others While the discoveries of scientists have provided vital knowledge which has made innovation possible it is a revelation of Weightman s study that it is more often than not the amateur who enjoys the eureka moment when an invention works for the first time Filled with fascinating stories of struggle rivalry and the ingenuity of both famous inventors and hundreds of forgotten people Weightman s captivating work is a triumph of storytelling that offers a fresh take on the making of our modern world

Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 ,1998 To Change the World

James Davison Hunter, 2010-04-14 Christians from every tradition have long desired to change the world for the better a desire with roots in biblical and theological reasoning Unquestionably Christians today are no less well intentioned and no less motivated to do good than in times past But even taking their aspirations and intentions at face value argues James Hunter the implicit social theory that guides so much of their efforts is deeply flawed In To Change the World he offers three essays connected and sequential but distinct arguing that Christians should finally give up the goal of trying to change the world and the triumphalist attitude that tends to go along with that idea
