Slama, 2012-12-06 Over 1 100 delegates from a hundred countries attended the 9th World Conference on Tobacco and Health After five days of debate several important resolutions were adopted unanimously and will be landmarks in the fight against tobacco This great success is due to three facts which emerged from the discussions 1 It appears clearly now that the risks associated with tobacco are much greater than previously assumed Out of two regular smokers one will die from a tobacco related disease 2 Reducing tobacco consumption can be achieved but the data collected in several countries show that it requires a global strategy This strategy was much debated during the conference The resolutions adopted emphasize the agreement of the delegates on the main points Action to fight the growing epidemic of tobacco attributable disease and death involves convincing the general public the medical community and decision makers of the need to act for tobacco control The most efficient tools for helping individuals never to start or successfully to stop using tobacco stubbornly prevalent and powerful today However they are largely based on questionable assumptions about human behaviour and unproven theoretical ideas about economics They were founded within the realms of philosophy and politics rather than hard science This book illustrates how politicians have selectively borrowed convenient economic concepts in order to promote and defend policies which entrench and escalate inequalities and other structural problems This accessible book invites readers to question the ideas that rule us and explore the challenges facing society It invites progressive thought about how we need to urgently organise action for the future

The Arms Race in Asia Andrew T.H. Tan,2013-12-13 This book is the first systematic examination of the emerging arms race in Asia The global trade in arms is to a large degree underpinned by the strong demand for arms in Asia and the Middle East the two largest arms export markets in the world Of these two regions Asia has become particularly significant led by the emergence of China and India as major powers It is therefore not surprising that the rapid military modernisation in Asia accompanied by significant increases in the size and sophistication of armed forces has generated attention as to its trends key characteristics causes and implications This phenomenon which has become evident since the end of the Cold War has also been widely described as an Asian arms race This book evaluates the key conceptual ideas which can shed light on this phenomenon as well as examining the complex mix of internal external and technological factors that have led to its emergence The volume explores the way in which the arms race is leading ultimately to three distinctive blocs in the emerging geostrategic landscape a loose bloc of US allies in the region a counter bloc of potential US adversaries and a neutral bloc of states with industrial age armed forces whose allegiances will vary according to circumstances and geostrategic developments The Arms Race in Asia concludes that if the emerging arms race is left unchecked it is likely that Asia will increasingly become a region of instability marked by conflicts and interstate wars The book will be of great interest to students of Asian politics strategic studies defence studies security studies and IR in general
