Major Provisions Of Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Here are the major provisions of the Civil Rights Bill signed into law today:

Public accommodations—Bans discrimination in establishments offering food, lodging, gasoline or entertainment to the public.

Equal employment opportunity — Prohibits discrimination by employers or unions in hiring, firing, promotions, apprenticeship training and job referrals.

Federal programs — Authorizes federal agencies to withhold funds from any program in which discrimination is found.

Public schools and facilities—Authorizes the attorney general to file suit to compel desegregation of public schools, parks, playgrounds, libraries and swimming pools.

Voting—Tightens procedures in earlier civil rights laws aimed at preventing discriminatory denial of Negro voting rights in federal elections.

Community Relations Service—Establishes a new agency to help local communities settle racial disputes on a voluntary basis.

Civil Rights Commission—Extends its life until 1968 and gives it new powers to collect and disseminate information on a national basis.

Effective date—All provisions of the bill become operative immediately except for the equal employment opportunity section, which goes into effect in one year.
