Vigilantes Beyond Borders Mette Eilstrup-Sangiovanni, J. C. Sharman, 2022-04-05 How and why NGOs are increasingly taking independent and direct action in global law enforcement from human rights to the environment Nongovernmental organizations NGOs have generally served as advocates and service providers leaving enforcement to states Now NGOs are increasingly acting as private police prosecutors and intelligence agencies in enforcing international law NGOs today can be found investigating and gathering evidence suing and prosecuting governments companies and individuals and even catching lawbreakers red handed Examining this trend Vigilantes beyond Borders considers why some transnational groups have opted to become enforcers of international law regarding such issues as human rights the environment and corruption while others have not

Three factors explain the rise of vigilante enforcement demand supply and competition Governments commit to more international laws but do a poor job of policing them leaving a gap and creating demand Legal and technological changes make it easier for nonstate actors to supply enforcement as in the instances of NGOs that have standing to use domestic and international courts or smaller NGOs that employ satellite imagery big data analysis and forensic computing As the growing number of NGOs vie for limited funding and media attention smaller more marginal groups often adopt radical strategies like enforcement Looking at the workings of major organizations including Amnesty International Greenpeace and Transparency International as well as smaller players such as Global Witness the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society and Bellingcat Vigilantes beyond Borders explores the causes and consequences of a novel provocative approach to global governance
