How to Lower Your Alzheimer's Risk Joseph Veebe, Approximately 50 million people suffer from Alzheimer's worldwide. In the U.S. alone, 5.5 million people have Alzheimer's, about 10 percent of the worldwide Alzheimer's population. Alzheimer's disease is a progressive brain disorder that damages and eventually destroys brain cells, leading to memory loss, changes in thinking, and other brain functions. This book is for you if you like to understand the basics of Alzheimer's conditions and the factors affecting it; you have anyone in your friends or family impacted by Alzheimer's; you like to understand how healthy living habits can prevent or delay Alzheimer's; you like to try some easy food recipes that are good for your brain. While the rate of progressive decline in brain function is slow at the onset, it gets worse with time and age. Brain function decline accelerates, and brain cells eventually die over time. While there has been significant research done to find a cure, currently there is no cure available. Alzheimer's incidence rate in the U.S. and other western countries is significantly higher than that of the countries in the developing world. Factors such as lifestyle, diet, physical and mental activity, and social engagement play a part in development and progression of Alzheimer's. In most cases, if you are above the age of 50, plaques and tangles associated with Alzheimer's may have already started forming in your brain. At the age of 65, you have a 10% chance of Alzheimer's, and at age 80, the chances are about 50%. With lifestyle changes, proper diet, and exercise of the mind and body, Alzheimer's is preventable.
