Table of contents

1. What's Changed for Presenters and Hosts
2. Adobe Connect 8 Quick Reference for Participants

Adobe Connect® 8 has a simpler and more intuitive user interface that makes it even easier to join, present, and participate in meetings. This guide is intended to help you quickly make the transition to using Adobe Connect 8's new interface and features.

It's divided into two sections:

- What's Changed for Presenters and Hosts
- What's Changed for Participants

The presenters and hosts section is a tour of the major changes in Adobe Connect 8 and goes into some detail. The participants section is designed as a quick visual overview of key interface changes and new features. If you're a host or presenter, you can send this sheet out to your meeting participants to help them quickly find their way.

The screenshots below summarize several of the new features added in Adobe Connect 8:

Use this App Bar to help you control audio, video, screen, and secondary status.

Share your desktop, presentations, and other documents via drag-and-drop to the share pane.

Use the profile grid to get more info on people in your meetings. You can also share the video from your screen via desktop or other users.

Use the Attention pane to clearly share your video with everyone. It contains three video feeds and you can control and zoom in on each.

The Chat pane now allows multiple full-screen conversations, and you can go private, mute, and unmute each conversation.

Adobe Connect 8 is now by default. (If you're logged in as a presenter or participant, some of these options aren't for you.)
