

AMELIA EARHART

Early Life

Amelia Earhart was born in Atchinson, Kansas on July 24, 1897. She spent much of her childhood playing with her little sister, Muriel. They enjoyed collecting insects and frogs, playing sports like baseball and football, and shooting guns. Amelia's parents separated when she was young, so she and her sister lived with her grandparents until she was ten. Amelia's first "flight" occurred when she was only seven years old. With help from her sister and uncle, she made a homemade roller coaster. She crashed dramatically, but told her sister it "was just like flying." At eleven years old, Amelia saw one of the Wright Brothers' first airplanes at the Iowa State Fair in 1908. At this point she had no interest in flying and did not think too much of the plane. Amelia's father and her mother reunited, but it did not last long. Her mother took the girls to live with friends in Chicago, Illinois in 1911.

Young Adult

After Amelia graduated from high school, she was not sure what she wanted to do. She attended the Ogontz School in Pennsylvania, but dropped out to be a nurse's aide who tended to wounded soldiers in World War I. Amelia then studied to be a mechanic, but then went back to school to study medicine at Columbia University in 1919. She eventually decided to study medical research, until she took her first plane flight. Her parents reunited in California in 1920 and Amelia joined them.

First Flight

Amelia and her father waited on an air show in California in 1920. Amelia took her first flight and later said "I knew I had to fly" as soon as the plane was off the ground. With the combination of Amelia's hard work and money from her mother, Amelia was able to pay for flying lessons. She eventually bought her own plane. It was bright yellow and she nicknamed it "Canary." She became the sixteenth woman to receive a pilot's license and set a new altitude record for female pilots of 14,000 feet.

Crossing the Atlantic

Amelia was invited to take part in a historic flight across the Atlantic in 1928. Amelia flew across the Atlantic Ocean in the airplane, Friendship, with pilot Bill Shultz and co-pilot Slim Gordon. Amelia served as the navigator of the flight. After twenty-one hours of flying, the plane landed in Wales on June 18, 1928. Amelia became the first woman to make the flight across the Atlantic Ocean. When Amelia returned to America she was celebrated. They had a ticker tape parade for her in New York City and she was invited to the White House to meet President Calvin Coolidge. In 1931, Amelia married book publisher George Putnam.
