constructions in the English language While English adjectives generally precede the entities they modify they may also occur in postmodifying position This study assumes that the different postmodifying constructions are a positional variation of attributive premodification The support for this claim is derived from a detailed analysis of the general syntax and semantics of adjectives as well as a cross check of previous theories with a wide range of actual language examples taken from computerized corpora An approach from the Prague School Functional Sentence Perspective enables this study to accomplish an integrated view of adjectival postmodification
