Milton and the Reformation Aesthetics of the Passion Erin Henriksen, 2009-11-23 Scholarship on Milton's view of God the Father and the Son has focused on the author's theological beliefs For Milton these are equally artistic questions and to address them this study considers the precedents in Christian art that provide models for portraying the divine within a reformed context Milton's revision of the passion tradition in his short poems of 1645 and his later epic poems substitutes a living obedient and subservient Son in place of late medieval representations of the crucifixion His alternative passion unfolds through a poetic vocabulary of fragmentation omission and restoration drawing on iconoclasm as an artistic strategy This study addresses the long standing question about Milton's avoidance of the crucifixion and contributes to the broader study of his reformed poetics

The Logic of Intersubjectivity Darren M. Slade, 2020-08-27 To survey harsh criticisms against Brian Douglas McLaren 1956 readers gain the inaccurate impression that he is a heretical relativist who denies objective truth and logic While McLaren's inflammatory and provocative writing style is partly to blame this study also suspects that his critics base much of their analyses on only small portions of his overall corpus The result becomes a caricature of McLaren's actual philosophy of religion What is argued in this book is that McLaren's philosophy of religion suggests a faith based intersubjective relationship with the divine ought to result in an existential appropriation of Christ's religious ethical teachings When subjectively internalized this appropriation will lead to the assimilation of Jesus kingdom priorities thereby transforming the believer's identity into one that actualizes Jesus kingdom ideals The hope of this book is that by tracing McLaren's philosophy of Christian religion future researchers will not only be able to comprehend and perhaps empathize with McLaren's line of reasoning but they will also possess a more nuanced discernment of where they agree and disagree with his overall rationale
