

2. Declaration and American Independence (1763-1776)

Main Facts to Remember

- 1763 marked the end of the French and Indian War – a war where the Americans and British fought against the French and Indians; the Americans and British won, but the war had a negative effect on their relationship (see next bullet point).
- After 1763 the British abandoned their policy of salutary neglect – because they felt that they had spent a lot of money on the French and Indian War and that the Americans should pay the cost; for this reason, the British put lots of new taxes on the Americans – for example, the Stamp Act, the Sugar Act, and the Tea Act.
- The American colonists thought the new British taxes were unfair because they had no one to represent them in the British government (“No taxation without representation!”).
- Eventually, the American colonists became so unhappy with the British taxes that they began to protest – some examples: the Stamp Act Congress, boycotts of British products, the Sons of Liberty, the Boston Tea Party, the First Continental Congress, the Second Continental Congress.
- The Second Continental Congress decided that America should break away from England and become an independent country; they assigned Thomas Jefferson the job of writing a document that described the reasons for American independence – this document was called the Declaration of Independence.
- The main ideas contained in the Declaration of Independence are:
 - “All men are created equal” – every human being has natural rights – rights that they are born with and which are “unalienable,” meaning they can’t be taken away (“life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness”); this idea comes from John Locke and the European Enlightenment.
 - Another Enlightenment idea contained in the Declaration is social contract – it says that people owe loyalty only to a government that acts in their best interests.
 - The Declaration says that the main job of the government is to protect people’s natural rights; if the government fails to do this, then the people have the right to “alter or abolish” (change or get rid of) that government and create a new one.
 - Lastly, the Declaration of Independence argues that the government gets its power from “the consent of the governed.” In other words, the government gets its power from the people; they must give their “consent” (permission) to be governed.

Important Terms & People

natural rights
unalienable rights
social contract

consent of the governed democracy
republic

Thomas Jefferson
John Locke

Study Questions

1. Why did the British decide to raise taxes on the American colonists? How did the Americans react? Give specific examples for both questions.
2. How did Enlightenment ideas influence the Declaration of Independence?
3. What are natural rights and what do they have to do with government?
4. Where does the government get its power from, according to the Declaration?
5. According to the Declaration, what is the primary responsibility of the government? What do people have the right to do if the government fails to live up to this responsibility?
