

Short Answer Questions

Question 1

Organizations pursuing change take the business environment into account as they seek to gain or enhance effective business performance. But is being aware and reacting to an environment controlling change?

- a. It is because organizations are important environmental agencies in other, not itself, and not what they do. The business world is increasingly being governed by technology, markets, and strategic decisions of changing local institutions, and, therefore, the "new market" environment is becoming dominant.
- b. It is because the environment is a business structure. There are technology, markets, and institutions, which are all important factors in the business world, and the business environment is becoming dominant.
- c. The business environment is based on technology, markets, and strategic decisions, and many other factors, but the business environment is not the business and is not a business environment.
