an activist Druckman 2015 Jamieson Hardy 2014 One of the core tenets of librarians and libraries is to present information in a neutral way Research also shows that Informal conversations about science can have a greater effect on people than reading about it online or hearing about it on the news Eveland Cooper 2013 Again libraries can play a role in fostering these types of conversations Given this landscape this book will demonstrate concrete ways that libraries and librarians can play a role in fostering public engagement with science In addition to background information on the current landscape of public knowledge and understanding of science it will also include best practices and case studies of different types of programming and services that libraries can offer Often libraries do not jump to mind when people think about science education or science literacy and many librarians do not come from a science background Literature on science programming and sharing science is largely absent from the library field This book will help give confidence to librarians that they can participate in engaging the public with science At the same time it will provide a conduit to bring informal science educators communication officers from universities or research organizations who share scientific discoveries with the public and librarians together to explore ways to align their work to promote scientific literacy for all Fulfilling the Promise John T. This book identifies and challenges assumptions about the doctorate and the discourses associated with it. The editors and contributors subvert and transform the de facto assumptions that frame the ways in which the doctorate is spoken and written and thus underpin approaches to planning, conducting, and evaluating doctoral research. Giving voice to doctoral students and supervisors, the book opens a pathway for their own stories: why students entered doctoral study, the understandings and experiences they gleaned from it, and the implications for their own character. The book questions what kinds of discourses help to construct contemporary doctoral research and how these might be de- and reconstructed, and asks what doctoral study might look like in the future. Academics, students, and practitioners alike will find an avenue into rigorous research design from reflective and insightful scholars who provide a voice for doctoral strategies for success. The Struggle for Change Marvin T. Chiles, 2023-12-28 A Black majority city with a history of the most severe segregation and inequity, Richmond is still grappling with this legacy as it moves into the twenty-first century. Marvin Chiles now offers a unique take on Richmond's racial politics since the civil rights era by demonstrating that the city's current racial disparities in economic mobility, housing, and public education actually represent the unintended consequences of Richmond's racial reconciliation measures. He deftly weaves municipal politics together with grassroots efforts, examining the work and legacies of Richmond's Black leaders from Henry Marsh on the city council in the 1960s to Mayor Levar Stoney, to highlight the urban revitalization and public history efforts meant to overcome racial divides after Jim Crow, yet which ironically reinforced racial inequality across the city. Compellingly written, this project carries both local and broader regional significance for Richmonders, Virginians, southerners, and all Americans.
