Because the increase in educational demand has occurred at all levels these efforts often address various levels of education from early childhood through primary schooling junior secondary and secondary schooling and into tertiary education Efforts also have been made to increase participation in education by marginalized and or special populations The range of efforts is large with some focusing on involving migrants immigrants refugees in primary education while others aim at opening up choices at the university level Recently nations in the region have recognized the possibilities of digital learning online learning as cell phones and other widely used portable wireless devices have made it possible to sell the idea that one can learn from anywhere at any time This widespread access to technology has made it possible for governments as well as private entities to expand learning opportunities even to populations previously unreached or to address difficult to reach sectors of the population At the same time the population itself has not only increased in numbers but in diversity Maintaining quality through digital and other means of quick expansion of educational opportunities continues to be challenging if not problematic

Quality of sexual and reproductive health care: strengths, gaps, and challenges for midwifery care Ramon Escuriet, Lorena Binfa, Loreto Pantoja, 2025-02-18 Poor quality of sexual and reproductive care SRC persists despite countries commitments to international conferences The challenges posed by the COVID 19 pandemic reversed trends in maternal and neonatal mortality and contraception rates increasing unmet family planning needs and gender based violence

Evidence shows that midwifery care has made an essential contribution to the development of high quality services in maternal and childcare. The introduction of midwifery professionals trained according to international standards and integrated into the health system can provide around 90% of primary health care for women and newborns including family planning. These skilled professionals can save lives and improve the health and well being of women and newborn infants at a scale unmatched by other health interventions. Evidence identified 56 outcomes improved by the full scope of midwifery. The weight of sexual and reproductive health on general health and wellbeing has a greater impact on women particularly those that are neglected to receive high quality SRC. Providing high quality SRC demands more humanized and integrated efficient and effective services with a greater emphasis on quality both from a technical perspective and from the user experience. Despite all the efforts the quality of SRC is still a challenge globally research is needed to identify best practices addressing quality care tailored to individuals implementation of models of care that enhance both well being and safety optimization of physiological processes during childbirth as well as validation of outcomes measures.
