Berman, 2022 An in depth comparative analysis of the family novel as it developed as a genre in Russia and England during the course of the nineteenth century The Garland Companion to Vladimir Nabokov Vladimir E. Alexandrov, 2014-05-22 First published in 1995 This companion constitutes a virtual encyclopaedia of Nabokov and occupies a unique niche in scholarship about him Articles on individual works by Nabokov including his short stories and poetry provide a brief survey of critical reactions and detailed analyses from diverse vantage points For anyone interested in Nabokov from scholars to readers who love his works this is an ideal guide Its chronology of Nabokov s life and works bibliographies of primary and secondary works and a detailed index make it easy to find reliable information any aspect of Nabokov s rich legacy The Fictions of Language and the Languages of Fiction Monika Fludernik, 2003-12-16 Monika Fludernik presents a detailed analysis of free indirect discourse as it relates to narrative theory and the crucial problematic of how speech and thought are represented in fiction Building on the insights of Ann Banfield s Unspeakable

Sentences Fludernik radically extends Banfield's model to accommodate evidence from conversational narrative non-fictional prose and literary works from Chaucer to the present. Fludernik's model subsumes earlier insights into the forms and functions of quotation and aligns them with discourse strategies observable in the oral language. Drawing on a vast range of literature, she provides an invaluable resource for researchers in the field and introduces English readers to extensive work on the subject in German as well as comparing the free indirect discourse features of German, French, and English. This study effectively repositions the whole area between literature and linguistics, opening up a new set of questions in narrative theory.

The Army and Navy Magazine, 1887 Russian Realisms Molly Brunson, 2016-09-10 One fall evening in 1880 Russian painter Ilya Repin welcomed an unexpected visitor to his home: Lev Tolstoy. The renowned realists talked for hours, and Tolstoy turned his critical eye to the sketches in Repin's studio. Tolstoy's criticisms would later prompt Repin to reflect on the question of creative expression and conclude that the path to artistic truth is relative, dependent on the mode and medium of representation. In this original study, Molly Brunson traces many such paths that converged to form the tradition of nineteenth-century Russian realism, a tradition that spanned almost half a century from the youthful projects of the Natural School and the critical realism of the age of reform to the mature masterpieces of Tolstoy, Fyodor Dostoevsky, and the paintings of the Wanderers, Repin chief among them. By examining the classics of the tradition, Brunson explores the emergence of multiple realisms from the gaps, disruptions, and doubts that accompany the self-conscious project of representing reality. These manifestations of realism are united not by how they look or what they describe but by their shared awareness of the fraught yet critical task of representation. By tracing the engagement of literature and painting with aesthetic debates on the sister arts, Brunson argues for a conceptualization of realism that transcends artistic media. Russian Realisms integrates the lesser-known tradition of Russian painting with the familiar masterpieces of Russia's great novelists, highlighting both the common ground in their struggles for artistic realism and their cultural autonomy and legitimacy. This erudite study will appeal to scholars interested in Russian literature and art, comparative literature, art history, and nineteenth-century realist movements. The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature, 1904
