examination of microfinance's enduring popularity with Northern publics Through a case study of Kiva.org the world's first person to person microlending website and other microfinance organizations the book argues that international development efforts have an affective dimension This is fostered through narrative and visual representations through the performance of development rituals and through bonds of fellowship between Northern donors and Southern recipients These practices constitute people in the global North as everyday humanitarians and mobilize their affective investments which are financial social and emotional investments in distant others to alleviate their poverty This book draws on ethnographic material from the US India and Indonesia and the anthropological and development studies literature on humanitarianism affect and the public faces of development It opens up novel avenues of research into the formation of new development subjects in the global North This book will appeal to researchers and students of international development anthropology media studies and related fields as well as practitioners and professionals in the field of international development

Education, Learning and the Transformation of Development Amy Skinner, Matt Baillie Smith, Eleanor Brown, Tobias Troll, 2016-07-15 Whilst education has been widely recognised as a key tool for development this has tended to be limited to the incremental changes that education can bring about within a given development paradigm as opposed to its role in challenging dominant conceptions and practices of development and creating alternatives Through a collection of insightful and provocative chapters this book will examine the role of learning in shaping new discourses and practices of development By drawing on contributions from activists researchers education and development practitioners from around the world this book situates learning within the wider political and cultural economies of development It critically explores if and how learning can shape processes of societal transformation and consequently a new language and practice of development This includes offering critical accounts of popular informal and non formal learning processes as well as the contribution of indigenous knowledges in providing spaces for the co production of knowledge thinking and action on development and in terms of shaping the ways in which citizens engage with and create new understandings of development itself This book makes an important and original contribution by reframing educational practices and processes in relation to broader global struggles for justice voice and development in a rapidly changing development landscape

Communicating Development with Communities Linje Manyozo, 2017-07-14 Communicating Development with Communities aims to take students researchers and development professionals away from the theory of the classroom or policy making boardroom and out into the community Building on the work of Robert Chambers and Arturo Escobar the book is an empirically grounded critical reflection on how the development industry defines imagines and constructs development at the implementation level Communicating Development With Communities is written for students scholars and practitioners in participatory development to prepare them for the complexities and challenges that await them when it comes to working with marginalised people in both the north and the south

Creative Economies of Culture in South Asia Anna Morcom, Neelam Raina, 2024-12-18 This book explores the crafts and performing arts of South Asia through a focus on labour and livelihood It brings to light little researched angles of social and political economies of culture and the ways in which they have shifted and changed in different historical eras and different political economic and social formations up to the present In particular through this focus on labour and livelihood the contributors analyse the extensive parallels and similarities of arts and crafts on the one hand and music and performing arts on the other ranging from questions of lineage transmission class caste community professional versus amateur performers and artisans to the impact of globalisation neoliberal reforms and mediatization Given the role of gender inequalities and differences within caste community based cultural production in South Asia across visual material and performing arts and crafts this interdisciplinary perspective is particularly salient and links together broader sociological and historical trends in South Asian cultural or creative economies Creative economies of culture explores labour and livelihood through a gamut of crafts and performing arts ranging from courtly and classical to commissioned to mass produced and in epochs ranging from colonial or feudal to globalised and neoliberal In the process it revisits refines or revises notions of social and cultural capital socio economic mobility the value role and agency of crafts and performing arts and the status of their artisans and performers Original chapters written by contributors with an interdisciplinary background look at the survival and adaption of traditional artisanal communities traditional forms of practice historical shifts such as colonialism industrialisation and nationalism as well as modern industries and institutions including technologies of mass production and creative entrepreneurship This book contextualises current debates within art craft music and dance in South Asia It develops new theoretical understandings of creative culture through a focus on labour and contributes to a range of social sciences arts and humanities disciplines including South Asian studies Ethnomusicology Crafts and Design Economic Anthropology Historical Sociology and Historical Economics Cultural History Human Geography and Creative Industries and Economies

Multipolar Globalization Jan Nederveen Pieterse, 2017-09-07 Like a giant oil tanker the world is slowly turning The rapid growth of economies in Asia and the global South has led to a momentous shift in the world order leaving much of the traditional literature on globalization behind Multipolar Globalization Emerging Economies and Development is the perfect guide to these ongoing 21st century transformations combining engaging and wide ranging coverage with cutting edge analysis The rise of China and other emerging economies has led to the emergence of a new geography of trade new economic and political combinations new financial actors investors and donors and weaker American hegemony This interdisciplinary volume combines development studies global political economy sociology and cultural studies to ask what this growth means for domestic and global inequality and examines the role of multipolarity in the reshaping of globalization Renowned globalization scholar Jan Nederveen Pieterse deftly guides the reader through the development of globalization in the West and the East explaining key topics such as the 2008 crash trends in inequality the changing fortunes of the BRICs and the role of governance and democracy Accessible and insightful this book will be an essential guide for both students in the social sciences and for professionals and scholars seeking a fresh perspective Cultural Policies for Sustainable Development Anita Kangas, Nancy Duxbury, Christiaan De Beukelaer, 2019-12-13 The concept of sustainable development is commonly divided into environmental economic social and cultural dimensions While a variety of international actors have declared the importance of culture in sustainable development jointly articulating this clearly has been difficult For example the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs that were adopted by the UN General Assembly in September 2015 contained only the most fleeting mention of culture None of the SDGs referred directly to the case for integrating culture into sustainable development planning and decision making The role of cultural policy has remained unclear This book contributes to a better understanding of the role of culture in achieving sustainability focusing on the particular roles for cultural policy in this context Cultural sustainability is conceptualised as the sustainability of cultural and artistic practices and patterns and to the role of cultural traits and actions to inform and compose part of the pathways towards more sustainable societies The links between culture and sustainable development are analysed in ways that articulate and contemplate different roles for cultural policy The contributors take up the concerns and perspectives of international national and local authorities and actors illuminating ways in which these multi scale efforts both intersect and diverge This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Cultural Policy
