

Colour

Colour is often one of the most exciting components of a painting, but what exactly is it? Understanding the basic principles of colour theory helps you analyse how artists exploit and manipulate it to their work. They use colour together with composition, perspective, and light and shade to strengthen the impact of the subject matter.

Mixing and comparing colours

The perception of light makes colours visible. Light travels in waves of different lengths, which give each wavelength a different colour. The range of wavelengths perceived by the human eye is called the visible spectrum. The shorter visible wavelengths appear as violet, and the longest as red. Artists can gain insight from scientific principles that describe colour wavelengths and effect colour. Color of colours is fundamental work. The colour in a painting can provide the evidence of reflecting light.

The colour wheel

From understanding the color wheel, you can learn how to mix colors. The color wheel is a circular diagram that shows the relationships between colors. It is divided into three main sections: primary colors, secondary colors, and tertiary colors. The primary colors are red, yellow, and blue. The secondary colors are orange, green, and purple. The tertiary colors are the mixtures of primary and secondary colors. The color wheel is a useful tool for artists to understand the relationships between colors and to create harmonious color schemes.

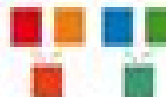

Primary and secondary

Primary colors are the colors that cannot be created by mixing other colors. Secondary colors are created by mixing two primary colors. The color wheel shows the relationships between primary and secondary colors. The primary colors are red, yellow, and blue. The secondary colors are orange, green, and purple. The tertiary colors are the mixtures of primary and secondary colors.

More colour mixtures

More color mixtures can be created by mixing primary and secondary colors. The color wheel shows the relationships between primary and secondary colors. The primary colors are red, yellow, and blue. The secondary colors are orange, green, and purple. The tertiary colors are the mixtures of primary and secondary colors.

Intensity

Intensity is the brightness or dullness of a color. It is measured on a scale from 1 to 10. The color wheel shows the relationships between colors. The primary colors are red, yellow, and blue. The secondary colors are orange, green, and purple. The tertiary colors are the mixtures of primary and secondary colors.
