

It is usual human nature to admire the beauty around us, such as we are often awe-struck when we see a painting, or read a beautiful poem, or listen to soothing music! Art is everywhere around us in many forms and holds a significant value in our lives. It is difficult to describe "Art" in literal terms, but broadly it is understood to be a form to express one's feelings through any object or medium like paper, music, colours, technology, magic, photography etc. It could be abstract, realistic, naturalistic, conceptual, and inspirational.

It is agreeable that we are surrounded by Art and also rely on it in our daily routine. When we enter someone's home, it is difficult to stop ourselves to appreciate the way the living room is decorated. Conversations and Transformations Ananta Kumar Giri, 2002-01-01 In this intriguing new book Indian social theorist Ananta Kumar Giri issues a stirring call for scholars of contemporary social theory and practice to grapple with late modernity's most pressing social and political issues Giri counterposes Western thought with Indian social theory in a work that ranges across an array of Indian texts and ideas hitherto ignored by Western scholarship Included along with the mainstays of Indian intellectual thought like Gandhi and Sri Aurobindo are lesser known Indian social theorists economists sociologists and essayists who argue for transcendence of self interest social responsibility and political renewal Thoughtfully argued and lucidly written this work offers the reader a genuine transdisciplinary learning experience going beyond European ethnocentrism to make social theory a truly global conversation Essays on the Art of Pheidias Charles Waldstein, 2013-08 This 1885 book examines the extant works of the Greek sculptor Pheidias best known as the creator of the Parthenon Marbles and the gold and ivory statue of Zeus at Olympia Waldstein examines the Parthenon Marbles with particular scrutiny and charts the relationship between Pheidias school and the development of later Greek art New Essays in Comparative Aesthetics Robert Wilkinson, 2009-03-26 Comparative aesthetics is the branch of philosophy which compares the aesthetic concepts and practices of different cultures The way in which the various cultures of the world conceive of the aesthetic dimension of life in general and art in particular is revelatory of profound attitudes and beliefs which themselves make up an important part of the culture in question This anthology consists of entirely new essays by some of the leading internationally recognised scholars in the field The subjects addressed include the influence of Upaniadic thought on the classic Indian tradition in aesthetics and the way in which that tradition continues to have relevance to issues discussed today how Buddhist thought in general and Zen in particular shape aesthetic attitudes in Japanese culture how Confucianism affected not only the morality but also the classical aesthetics of China how different ideas of the self and of human nature affect artistic training and practice in different cultures how feminism can draw inspiration from classic non-European lines of thought in the area of aesthetics and how different attitudes to nature underpin a whole range of aesthetic beliefs and attitudes in western and eastern thought These ideas reveal both deep differences and deep similarities between east and west No one seeking to understand the cultures discussed in these essays can ignore their aesthetic dimension which often holds the key to understanding the deepest motives which have formed them
