

A couple in traditional Indian wedding attire stands in the foreground. The groom is wearing a dark blue kurta and dhoti, and the bride is wearing a pink and gold lehenga with a white dupatta. They are standing next to a large, multi-tiered wedding cake decorated with white frosting, gold patterns, and pink and purple flowers. The background is a warm, orange and yellow glow, possibly from stage lights, with a red spotlight visible. The overall atmosphere is festive and celebratory.

Overview of the agricultural modernization in Southeast Asia Takeshima, Hiroyuki, Joshi, Pramod Kumar, 2019-03-28

Despite the importance of Southeast Asia SEA region in the world for economy and agriculture and despite reported evidence of the modernization of various aspects of the agricultural sector the information has not been compiled in ways that provides more representative insights of the regions as well as chronological dynamic perspectives across different aspects of the overall agricultural developments This report partly fills this knowledge gap by summarizing the key characteristics in SEA region of the agricultural development as well as changes in related outcomes such as nutrition natural resource endowments and the labor movement into non farm economies In doing so the report gathers secondary cross country data on key aspects of the agricultural modernization and diversification Overall the SEA region has seen a relatively fast movement of labor out of the agricultural sector into non farm sectors including trade restaurants and hotel industries in the last few decades leading to higher labor productivity growth than land productivity growth. Despite the important roles of trade, the agricultural production within the region and in each country continues to account for important sources of food and nutrition. The modern production technologies and inputs have spread constantly within the region but with considerable time lags across countries. The growth of vegetable oils and aquaculture production have been considerable and contrast with South Asia, SA, where similar patterns have been observed for vegetables and milk production. The public sector has played important roles in agricultural research and development (R & D) on genetic improvements and infrastructure development while keeping the nominal assistance to the sector through market interventions to a relatively modest level which has been accompanied by the significant growth of the private sector participation in the provisions of inputs, services and agricultural finance. The agricultural modernization in SEA region has however been also associated with some negative outcomes including continued degradation of natural resources like water and forest areas in which SEA has been relatively rich historically and gradual increases in certain types of malnutrition including overweight and diabetes.

Trade Unions in Asia John Benson, Ying Zhu, 2008-05-30 Offering a comprehensive account of the role played by trade unions in Asia, this book focuses on the strategies they have adopted to represent workers and discusses the issues surrounding wages and working conditions, health and safety, women's employment opportunities and human resource development.

Labour Migration and the Recent Financial Crisis in Asia OECD, 2000-01-20 This series of reports identifies the impact of the Asian financial crisis on labour migration and the conditions of migrant workers in the region.

Worker Rights and Labor Standards in Asia's Four New Tigers Marvin J. Levine, 2007-08-20 As China, Indonesia, Thailand and Malaysia become world economic powers, questions arise regarding the fate of workers in these countries. This book examines the difficult road traveled by human rights movements in these nations when trying to create independent labor organizations free from governmental interference. The in-depth treatment includes a worker's rights labor standards model, individual interference, comprehensive data tables on many aspects of the labor struggle, ally crafted for each of these nations, comprehensive data tables on many aspects of the labor struggle, China's problems as it moves from complete state economic control to a modified form of capitalism.
