

Simple Machines Lab

Directions and Quantities:

You will need a shoe, a cart with wheels, a screwdriver, a round doorknob, a lever doorknob, and a dual-range force sensor attached to an interface connected to a computer with Logger Pro. Looking at the materials and lab we will be using, what are the safety precautions we should take to protect ourselves and materials during the investigation?

- 1) A wheel and axle is a modified lever that allows you to move a force over a longer distance. The bigger the radius, the bigger the mechanical advantage. ($W_{\text{work}} = F \times d$)
- 2) Hook your force sensor up to a shoe and slide it across the table to see the average force applied by the force sensor you are pulling on the shoe. What was the force?
- 3) Now do the same thing as #2 but put the shoe on the cart, so it rolls across the table. Which trial required the least amount of force?
 - a. which force is greater, sliding friction or rolling friction?
- 4) Which trial did more work?
- 5) Which trial appeared you to do work easier? That is because of the mechanical advantage, allowing you to do the same amount of work but easier over a bigger distance.
- 6) Look at the $W = F \times d$ equation. If the work stays the same, what happens to the force if you move it over a bigger distance?
- 7) Compare a lever doorknob and a circle doorknob. How are the doorknobs alike?
