Wall Street at War Alexandra Ouroussoff, 2010-10-04 INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS Many of the problems that lie at the heart of the current financial crisis stem from a significant but little known development that occurred in the early 1980s investors changed their investment criteria This change gave rise to a conflict a silent war between executives in charge of the world's largest corporations on the one hand and credit agencies whose task it is to enforce the criteria on investors behalf on the other The credit agencies that flourished in New York London and elsewhere acquired a great deal of power because their ratings now reflected investors new priorities and so controlled the ability of corporations to gain access to capital To attract investment capital corporations now have to employ enormous resources to create the illusion that capital is directed in line with the new expectations imposed by the credit agencies The result is that devious reporting on companies activities has become endemic

A Hypothetical Enhanced Renewable Energy Utilization (EREU) Model for Electricity Generation in Thailand Thomas Andexer, 2008 Master's Thesis from the year 2008 in the subject Environmental Sciences grade Passed Assumption University of Thailand College of Internet Distance Education CIDE School of Business Administration course Master Thesis Project 100 entries in the bibliography language English abstract This thesis presents a research project entitled A Hypothetical Enhanced Renewable Energy Utilization EREU Model for Electricity Generation in Thailand This research is motivated by Thailand's rapidly increasing electricity consumption caused by the country's long standing above average economic growth. Consequently the rising electricity demand can only be satisfied by continuously growing electricity imports and thus creating a significant burden to Thailand's national budget. Further more Thailand is heavily dependent on natural gas reserves for electricity generation however these are expected to be depleted within only three decades and global price levels for conventional fuels are increasingly volatile with an ascending tendency as well. Therefore Thailand faces an urgent need to strategically plan for the broad utilization of domestic renewable energy resources which is essential for a more diversified and thus sustainable electricity generation as well as for the nation's endeavor to become an energy hub within the South East Asian region. Under these circumstances this research conducts a comprehensive literature review regarding the past development as well as the current situation of renewable energy utilization in Thailand which concludes in the identification of the importance of renewable energy in the given context and closes with both a distinctive need assessment and a conceptual framework for Thailand's future renewable energy strategy. Subsequently the research introduces a unique primary research endeavor in the form of an explorative expert interview survey which succeeds in a substantial collection of qualitative and in depth
