

The human skeleton is composed of 206 bones, which are divided into the axial skeleton (skull, spine, and rib cage) and the appendicular skeleton (arms and legs). The bones are made of a hard, mineralized tissue called bone, which is constantly being renewed and repaired. The process of bone formation is called ossification, and it occurs in the bone marrow. The bones are connected by joints, which allow for movement. The skeleton provides support, protection, and movement for the body.

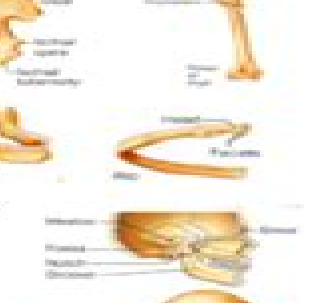

The human arm and hand bones are part of the appendicular skeleton. The humerus is the bone of the upper arm, and the radius and ulna are the bones of the forearm. The carpals are the small bones of the wrist, and the metacarpals and phalanges are the bones of the hand and fingers.
