screen have all but replaced the printed word as a source of information about the world and nowadays too picture books and comic strips are consulted much more readily and with much less intellectual effort than the printed word There can be little doubt but that pictures have come to play a very important role in communication It strikes me as odd that in what is nothing less than a visual age philosophers have had so little to say about the visual image and its use in communication Hardly anything has been done to explain the way in which pictures are used to inform us the way in which they influence our thinking our attitudes and our perception of the world My aim in this work is to fill this gap and in so doing to provide a viable account of pictorial communication
