Answer Sheet Washington Post:

The Testing Charade Daniel Koretz, 2017-08-31 For decades we've been studying experimenting with and wrangling over different approaches to improving public education and there's still little consensus on what works and what to do. The one thing people seem to agree on however is that schools need to be held accountable we need to know whether what they're doing is actually working. But what does that mean in practice? High stakes tests. Lots of them. And that has become a major problem. Daniel Koretz, one of the nation's foremost experts on educational testing, argues in The Testing Charade that the whole idea of test-based accountability has failed; it has increasingly become an end in itself, harming students and corrupting the very ideals of teaching. In this powerful polemic built on unimpeachable evidence and rooted in decades of experience with educational testing, Koretz calls out high stakes testing as a sham, a false idol that is ripe for manipulation and shows little evidence of leading to educational improvement. Rather than setting up incentives to divert instructional time to pointless test prep, he argues we need to measure what matters and measure it in multiple ways, not just via standardized tests. Right now we're lying to ourselves about whether our children are learning. And the longer we accept that lie, the more damage we do. It's time to end our blind reliance on high stakes tests. With The Testing Charade, Daniel Koretz insists that we face the facts and change course, and he gives us a blueprint for doing better.

Censored 2013 Mickey Huff, Andy Lee Roth, 2012-10-30 Every year since 1976 Project Censored, our nation's oldest news monitoring group, a university-wide project at Sonoma State University founded by Carl Jensen, directed for many years by Peter Phillips and now under the leadership of Mickey Huff, has produced a Top 25 list of underreported news stories and a book Censored dedicated to the stories that ought to be top features on the nightly news but that are missing because of media bias and self-censorship. Seven Stories Press has been publishing this yearbook since 1994, featuring the top stories listed democratically in order of importance according to students, faculty, and a national panel of judges. Each of the top stories is presented at length alongside updates from the investigative reporters who broke the stories. Beyond the Top 25 stories, additional chapters delve further into timely media topics. The Censored News and Media Analysis section provides annual updates on Junk Food News and News Abuse. Censored Deja Vu signs of hope in the alternative and news media and the state of media bias and alternative coverage around the world. In the Truth Emergency section, scholars and journalists take a critical look at the US NATO military industrial media empire. And in the Project Censored International section, the meaning of media democracy worldwide is explored in close association with Project Censored affiliates in universities and at media organizations all over the world. A perennial favorite of booksellers, teachers, and readers everywhere, Censored is one of the strongest life signs of our current collective desire to get the news we citizens need despite what Big Media tells us.

Understanding and Teaching U.S. Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender History Leila J. Rupp, Susan K. Freeman, 2014-12-17 Understanding and Teaching U.S. Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender History is the first book designed for teachers of U.S. history at all levels.

On the Same Track Carol Corbett Burris, 2015-03-17 A public school principal's account of the courageous leaders who have dismantled the tracking systems in their schools in order to desegregate classrooms What would happen if a school eliminated the tracks that rank students based on their perceived intellectual abilities Would low achieving students fall behind and become frustrated Would their higher achieving peers suffer from a watered down curriculum Or is tracking itself the problem A growing body of research shows that tracking doesn't increase learning for the minority and low income students who are overrepresented in low track classrooms This de facto segregation has led many civil rights advocates to argue that tracking is turning back the clock on equal education As a principal at a New York high school Carol Corbett Burris believed that the curriculum for the best students was the best curriculum for all She helped lead a bold plan to eliminate tracking from her school and the results couldn't have been further from the doom and gloom scenarios of tracking proponents Instead there was a dramatic improvement in the achievement of all students across racial and socioeconomic divisions and a near elimination of the achievement gap Today due to those efforts International Baccalaureate English is the twelfth grade curriculum for South Side students and all students take the same challenging courses together to prepare them for college In On the Same Track Burris draws on her own experience on the experiences of other schools and on the latest research to make an impassioned case for detracking Not only does the practice of tracking fail to benefit lower tracked students as Burris shows but it also results in the resegregation of classrooms Furthermore she argues that many of today's popular reforms emanate from the same sort and select mentality that reinforces social stratification based on race and class On the Same Track is a rousing controversial and yet optimistic account of how we need to change our assumptions and policies if we are to live up to the promise of democratic public education Only by holding all students to the same high standards can we ensure that all have the same opportunity to live up to their full potential
