Drowning by Accident Elizabeth Meinhard,2022-02-15 Drowning By Accident explains why it is so easy to drown where accidents happen and how to save lives by early rescue and resuscitation More than 600 people die by drowning in Britain every year Swimming is promoted as a particularly safe form of exercise so that swimmers forget or ignore the dangers of frigid lakes swollen rivers incoming tides or outgoing rip currents Drowning accidents take place because we don't recognise water as a hostile environment We overestimate the strength and endurance of our bodies and underestimate the power and deceptiveness of water Year after year victims lose their lives in typical drowning accidents often sinking so quickly and silently that nearby family friends and onlookers fail to notice the tragedy taking place close beside them Babies drown in baths Toddlers drown in garden ponds School children fall off rafts Teenagers strike too far from the shore Pensioners wade into rivers to save their dogs Victims often die within minutes of sinking beneath the surface A quarter of those who reach hospital alive will also die while others survive with severe permanent brain damage This means that it is vitally important for parents grandparents teachers lifeguards and lawmakers to recognise the risks and prevent drowning accidents before they take place Cook's Continental Timetable ,1987

The Role of Local Authorities in Health Issues Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Communities and Local Government Committee, 2013-03-27 From 1 April 2013 local government will have a responsibility to improve the health and wellbeing of local people Councils are well placed to make the most of a move away from a medical model of health based on clinical treatment to a social model based on health promotion protection and disease prevention Central to the new system will be Health and Wellbeing Boards whose members include councillors GPs directors of local services and community groups They will need to focus on health promotion among all age groups With few powers and no budget to commission services themselves they will have to display leadership build relationships and use their influence locally to turn their health and wellbeing strategies into reality Health and Wellbeing Boards will be part of a complex new structure and it is still unclear who will be in charge locally in the event of a health emergency New arrangements for screening and immunisation services lack a local dimension These services along with public health services for children up to five years old and childhood immunisation services could be devolved to public health staff within local government under Directors of Public Health The Committee points to weaknesses in the grant formula and the Health Premium and calls on the Government to provide local authorities with community budgets to direct resources at people and places rather than organisations The Government also needs to address concerns about local authority and NHS access to each other's data
