Physio-logging in Humans: Recent Advances and Limitations in Wearable Devices for Biomedical Applications

Mohammad Yavarimanesh, Colin K. Drummond, Cederick Landry, 2025-08-29 The recent advancements in wearables, nearables and machine learning have paved the way for unparalleled approaches to monitoring physiological parameters. These approaches show great potential in studying human physiology during daily life as well as in extreme conditions such as astronaut monitoring and human performance. In addition, wearables and recent advances in physio-logging can alleviate the impact of numerous diseases and medical conditions globally and therefore have the potential to reduce the cost of healthcare and increase patients' quality of life. Noteworthy strides have already been accomplished evoking enthusiasm among patients and researchers alike but very few wearable solutions have reached their anticipated potential due to many limitations such as sensor interoperability, fit, comfort, adverse reaction to wearables, lack of design standards and validation guidelines. By curating an article collection that brings together explored avenues to monitor physiological parameters that did or did not work, it is anticipated that further progress in the field can be accelerated.

Romantic Dialogues and Afterlives Monika Coghen, Anna Paluchowska-Messing, 2020 Romantic writers often asserted their individuality but this assertion tended to take the form of positioning themselves in relation to other authors and literary texts. Thus they implicitly acknowledged the rich network of broadly understood poetic dialogue as an important and potent source for their own creativity. When in 1816 John Keats wrote 'Great spirits now on earth are sojourning', he celebrated the originality of his contemporaries and the historical significance of his times, pointing to deep interest in the hum of mighty works in all the fields of human activity to which the nations ought to listen. Keats's sonnet suggests not only stimulating exchanges between poets, artists and social thinkers in the same language but also the idea of transnational appreciation and dialogue. The volume takes up this idea and explores the dialogues of Romantic authors within the wide scope of European and American cultures. Essays by scholars from Germany, Britain, Bulgaria, Poland, Canada and the United States of America examine Romantic writers' responses to their contemporaries, explore their dialogues with the culture of the past and their interactions across the arts and sciences. They also scrutinize the Romantics' far-reaching influence on later writers and artists and thus extend the network of artistic exchange to modern times. The volume offers a rich tapestry of interconnections that span across time and space, interlace languages and cultures and link Romantic writers and artists with their predecessors and successors across Europe and America. The essays in the collection invite the reader to join ongoing dialogues between writers and their audiences of the past and present.

Key policy areas such as clusters, support services and higher education institutions are well documented. The research methodology is founded on the experience accumulated by the authors over several decades in many different countries in the context of a world-class international organisation. This allows a good selection of policy-relevant examples and an experienced presentation of them. Jean Eric Aubert, Former programme manager, World Bank and OECD.
