unpack how game experiences vary with individual learner goals as an interaction with the parameters of an educational environment Simply put we need to form a cohesive compelling argument in support of the notion that games are entire learning ecologies in and of themselves This edited volume is designed to anchor collective thinking with respect to the value added nature of games for learning and the complexities involved in player experience narrative context and environmental player interactions As could be expected we are not interested in debates about gamification game violence individual game quality and other topics that have become standard fare in extant games literature Instead we seek to emphasize issues of scalability the induction of player goal adoption affordances of game based instructional environments relationships between play and transfer and the value of games as part of an ecopsychological worldview As long time contributors in a field that has made a habit of playing it safe pun intended we seek to bring the dialogue in a more nuanced and meaningful direction that will reach teachers researchers designers and players alike
