Archaeology, 1931-1939 Linton Satterthwaite, Mary Butler, John Alden Mason, 2005-03-04. Situated on the banks of the Usumacinta River in northwestern Guatemala, Piedras Negras is an important Maya site known for its carved monuments and panels. Between 1931 and 1938 the University Museum conducted research at Piedras Negras, excavating the site core, producing an excellent site map and documenting architectural developments to an unprecedented standard. Project member Tatiana Proskouriakoff revolutionized Maya historiography with her architectural reconstructions and visionary synthesis of the position and dating of texts and monuments at the site. Innovative excavation methods included test pitting, probing in more modest structures, and the identification of new building types such as sweat baths. More importantly, the Piedras Negras project developed the logistical and methodological criteria that are now standard in the field. Fewer than a dozen copies of the preliminary papers were issued between 1933 and 1936; the later descriptive and interpretive essays of the architecture series have likewise become rare. Piedras Negras Archaeology, 1931-1939 reintroduces to the scholarly community and public these pioneering works, meticulously scanned and edited from the fragile originals, with all the maps, tables, line art, and photographs from the initial reports and an interpretive essay and index for modern readers. University Museum Monograph 122. Algorithmic Foundations of Robotics IX David Hsu, Volkan Isler, Jean-Claude Latombe, Ming C. Lin, 2010-11-18. Robotics is at the cusp of dramatic transformation. Increasingly complex robots with unprecedented autonomy are finding new applications from medical surgery to construction to home services. Against this background, the algorithmic foundations of robotics are becoming more crucial than ever in order to build robots that are fast, safe, reliable, and adaptive. Algorithms enable robots to perceive, plan, control, and learn. The design and analysis of robot algorithms raise new fundamental questions that span computer science, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, and mathematics. These algorithms are also finding applications beyond robotics, for example in modeling molecular motion and creating digital characters for video games and architectural simulation. The Workshop on Algorithmic Foundations of Robotics (WAFR) is a highly selective meeting of leading researchers in the field of robot algorithms. Since its creation in 1994, it has published some of the field's most important and lasting contributions. This book contains the proceedings of the 9th WAFR held on December 13-15, 2010, at the National University of Singapore. The 24 papers included in this book span a wide variety of topics from new theoretical insights to novel applications. Algorithms and Computation Kyung-Yong Chwa, Oscar H. Ibarra, 1998-11-23. This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 9th International Symposium on Algorithms and

Computation ISAAC 98 held in Taejon Korea in December 1998 The 47 revised full papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from a total of 102 submissions The book is divided in topical sections on computational geometry complexity graph drawing online algorithms and scheduling CAD CAM and graphics graph algorithms randomized algorithms combinatorial problems computational biology approximation algorithms and parallel and distributed algorithms
