81.

As the number of days since the hurricane struck increases, the number of people who have been displaced increases and the number of people who have been killed also increases. Data from September 14, 2004 through 2005, with a line graph, supports the relationship between these two variables.

Incorrect

Incorrect

Correct answer(s)

Correct answer(s)

82.

Students understand that a point on a line represents the amount that has been accumulated over the given time period. Understanding relationships between the data representing time and cumulative change over the first part of the hurricane season (2004) relative to change over the rest of the season (2005).

Correct

83.

The following graph shows the relationship for an hour of the year 2004. The relationship appears constant within the first hour and then, instead of continuing increasing, it levels off and then decreases the number of people who have been displaced relative to the number of people who have been killed.

Correct

84.

Students apply a 1 degree rule (approximately) to the relationship between variables and then provide evidence for their relationship through a graphical representation, which is a line graph.

(A) The graph is a line graph.

(B) The graph shows a constant relationship and it represents a constant relationship.

(C) The graph shows a constant relationship and it represents a constant relationship.

(D) The graph shows a constant relationship and it represents a constant relationship.
