

All My sons

Arthur Miller

Short summary:

Joe and Kate Keller had two sons, Chris and Larry. Keller was a successful businessman owned a manufacturing plant with Steve Deever, and their families were close. During the war, Keller's and Deever's manufacturing plant had a very profitable contract with the U.S. Army, supplying airplane parts. One morning, a shipment of defective parts came in. Keller didn't want to slow business he sent a group that he knew to be defective (not working perfectly), and twenty-one pilots died as a result.

Steve and Keller were arrested, but Keller claimed that the parts went out without his knowledge and that his partner was the one who had covered it up. Keller went home free, while Steve remained in jail.

Larry, was missing in action, but his mother insisted that he was still alive. Later we learn that he committed suicide on learning of his father's arrest.

Chris has asked Ann (Steve's daughter and Larry's old girlfriend) to marry him. Ann's brother George arrived to stop the wedding. He had gone to visit Steve in jail to tell him that his daughter was getting married, and then he left newly convinced that his father was innocent and convinced of Keller's guilt. Chris's confidence in his father's innocence is shaken, however, and in a confrontation with his parents, he is told by Mother that he must believe that Larry is alive. If Larry is dead, Mother claims, then it means that Keller killed him by shipping out those defective parts.

Mother told Keller that he ought to volunteer to go to jail if Chris wanted him to. She also talked to Ann and continued insisting that Larry is alive. Ann was forced to show Mother the letter that Larry wrote to her before he died, which was essentially a suicide note. The note basically confirms Mother's belief that if Larry is dead, then Keller is responsible—not because Larry's plane had the defective parts, but because Larry killed himself in response to the family responsibility and shame due to the defective parts.

Keller entered, and Mother was unable to prevent Chris from reading Larry's letter aloud. Keller now finally understood that all the dead pilots were his sons. He says that he was going into the house to get a jacket, and then he would drive to the jail. But a moment later, a gunshot is heard—Keller has killed himself.

All My Sons Monologue:

The Modern Monologue Michael Earley, Philippa Keil, 2013-09-27 The Modern Monologue in two volumes one for men and one for women is an exciting selection of speeches drawn from the landmark plays of the 20th century The great playwrights of the British American and European theatre and the plays most constantly performed on stage throughout the world are represented in this unique collection Monologues of all types both serious and comic realistic and absurdist provide a dynamic challenge for all actors the student the amateur and the professional A fuller appreciation of each speech is enhanced by the editors introduction and commentaries that set the plays and individual speeches in their dramatic and performance contexts

The Ultimate Scene and Monologue Sourcebook Ed Hooks, 1994 Preparing for an audition and unsure of what you want to do The Ultimate Scene and Monologue Sourcebook is the book you've been waiting for Unlike scene books that reprint 50 to 75 monologues excerpted from plays but don't include any background information this annotated guide tells you what you really need to know about audition material from more than 300 contemporary plays Here is how the book works Suppose that you're looking for a dramatic male female scene When you scan Part One Play Synopses and Analyses you come across an entry for The Middle of the Night by Paddy Chayefsky This is what you see The Middle of the Night by Paddy Chayefsky Samuel French Synopsis A kindly 53 year old widower falls in love with a 23 year old woman who is unhappily married to a musician No one in their circle of acquaintances approves of this union but their love is true Analysis Excellent human drama frequently touching Actors who play the widower need to have a good feel for New York City Brooklyn speech patterns This sensitivity isn't as essential for the part of the woman All levels Scenes Monologues Male Monologues 1 Female Female Scenes 1 Male Female Scenes 2 In addition to basic information about the play author and publisher the entry provides you with the story line a critique of the play and the number of audition worthy monologues and scenes it contains If the description of this particular play piques your interest your next step is to turn to Part Six Male Female Scenes for specifics about the selection This is what you'll see there The Middle of the Night by Paddy Chayefsky Samuel French Drama Act II Scene 2 pp 40 44 The Manufacturer 53 and The 23 After an unsatisfactory attempt at lovemaking The Manufacturer feels awful that he wasn't able to perform usually The is very understanding He then asks her to marry him The actor playing The Manufacturer must have a good feel for regional New York speech patterns This skill is less critical for the actress playing The Start The Manufacturer I'm sorry Betty End The Manufacturer Oh my sweet I love you so much you don't know If you change your mind tomorrow I won't be angry with you I won't lie to you Betty I'm afraid This entry tells you what type of scene this is dramatic where you'll find the selection act scene and page numbers the length of the scene the names and ages of the characters the context in which the characters are speaking and the first and last lines of the scene If the material seems appropriate all you have to do is get a copy of the play and get to work Because The Ultimate Scene and Monologue Sourcebook enables you to make informed decisions about the suitability of more than 1 000

monologues and scenes which you can find easily through the book's extensive cross indexes you'll gain a critical edge in the auditioning process The Contemporary American Monologue Eddie Paterson, Enoch Brater, Mark Taylor-Batty, 2015-12-17

Muñoz, Inmaculada Pineda-Hernández, 2015-02-27 Whether imaginary or based on real events stories are at the core of any culture Regardless of their length their rhetoric strategies or their style humans tell stories to each other to express their innermost fears and needs to establish a point within an argument or to engage their listeners in a fabricated composition Stories can also serve other purposes such as being used for entertainment for education or for the preservation of certain cultural traits Storytelling is at the heart of human interaction and as such can foster a dialogic narrative between the person creating the story and their audience In literature this dialogue has been traditionally associated with narrative in general and with the novel in particular However other genres also make use of storytelling including drama This volume explores the ways in which American theatre from all eras deals with this how stories are told onstage what kinds of stories are recorded in dramatic texts and how previously neglected realities have gained attention through the American playwright's telling or retelling of an event or action The stories unfolded in American drama follow recent narratology theories particularly in the sense that there is a greater preference for those so-called small stories over big stories Despite the increase in the production of this type of texts and the growing interest in them in the field of narratology small stories are literary episodes that have been granted less critical attention particularly in the analysis of drama As such this volume fills a void in the study of the stories presented on the American stage A/AS Level English Language and Literature for AQA

sends a teacher or director an email with a problem be it a simple comment or confusion it is evidence of a creative artist exploring new ground Many years ago Stella Adler sent Justice a letter in response to a panicked note he had written to her while lost in the weeds during rehearsals for a new play She set a tone for him as she succinctly defined the problem and reminded him of its elegant solution He was overwhelmed by the care she had given him That letter still hangs over his desk perfectly demonstrating the power of a written exchange between a teacher and a student
