Curriculum Design, Evaluation, and Teaching in Medical Education Jochanan Benbassat,2024-12-06 This concise and challenging examination of medical education aims to discuss curriculum design and evaluation in medical schools and to take a fresh look at current trends in patient care and continuing education teaching methods The ideas and insights provided here are based on the author s long career in clinical practice and teaching medical students and residents Medical education is no exception to the changes at every level in medicine For example the ready access to medical information via the Internet and other media has produced smarter and informed patients Multi specialty hospital practice has replaced the individual doctor patient relationship perhaps compromising patient care to some extent New subjects have been added over the years to medical curricula Nevertheless there has often been a reluctance to remove older topics possibly limiting the medical training course s ability to develop as expected The transition from theories of higher education to the reality of curriculum planning and design is a huge leap An important question is how to translate the mission of higher education in general which has been variably described as a training of reflective individuals who possess both culture and expertise and can master any subject with facility into a coherent teaching program The mission of medical education includes the promotion of professionalism in learners by including courses in medical ethics that have become integral to medical education in the USA However despite the development of standards and competencies related to professionalism there is no consensus on the specific goals of medical ethics education the knowledge and skills expected of learners and the best pedagogical methods and processes for their implementation and assessment A significant contribution to the clinical teaching literature Curriculum Design Evaluation and Teaching in Medical Education should be of interest to a variety of readers including clinical educators administrators health care professionals and especially residency directors

Dermatology in Rural Settings Robert T. Brodell,Adam C. Byrd,Cindy Firkins Smith,Vinayak K. Nahar,2021-09-15 This book addresses the maldistribution of health care between people in dense cities and more rural areas This proactive resource provides solutions that will motivate dermatologists to make a difference including free rural clinics and incentives to attract dermatologists to the aforementioned areas Comprehensive yet concise the book encompasses not only the logistics of the healthcare issues including location incentive and set up of facility but includes insight into the effectiveness of teledermatology a practice more commonly utilized due to the COVID 19 Pandemic Additionally chapters examine the relationship between economic viability and quality of care as well as government incentives and political action to mitigate this issue Unique and timely Dermatology in Rural Settings is an invaluable resource for dermatologists resident dermatologists and academic physicians interested in rural and urban health
