Consuming Pleasures Daniel Horowitz, 2012-03-15

How is it that American intellectuals who had for 150 years worried about the deleterious effects of affluence more recently began to emphasize pleasure playfulness and symbolic exchange as the essence of a vibrant consumer culture The New York intellectuals of the 1930s rejected any serious or analytical discussion let alone appreciation of popular culture which they viewed as morally questionable Beginning in the 1950s however new perspectives emerged outside and within the United States that challenged this dominant thinking Consuming Pleasures reveals how a group of writers shifted attention from condemnation to critical appreciation critiqued cultural hierarchies and moralistic approaches and explored the symbolic processes by which individuals and groups communicate Historian Daniel Horowitz traces the emergence of these new perspectives through a series of intellectual biographies With writers and readers from the United States at the center the story begins in Western Europe in the early 1950s and ends in the early 1970s when American intellectuals increasingly appreciated the rich inventiveness of popular culture Drawing on sources both familiar and newly discovered this transnational intellectual history plays familiar works off each other in fresh ways Among those whose work is featured are Jürgen Habermas Roland Barthes Umberto Eco Walter Benjamin C. L. R. James David Riesman and Marshall McLuhan Richard Hoggart members of London's Independent Group Stuart Hall Paddy Whannel Tom Wolfe Herbert Gans Susan Sontag Reyner Banham and Robert Venturi and Denise Scott Brown

The Economics of Belonging Martin Sandbu, 2022-05-17 A radical new approach to economic policy that addresses the symptoms and causes of inequality in Western society today Fueled by populism and the frustrations of the disenfranchised the past few years have witnessed the widespread rejection of the economic and political order that Western countries built up after 1945 Political debates have turned into violent clashes between those who want to take their country back and those viewed as defending an elitist broken and unpatriotic social contract There seems to be an increasing polarization of values The Economics of Belonging argues that we should step back and take a fresh look at the root causes of our current challenges In this original engaging book Martin Sandbu argues that economics remains at the heart of our widening inequality and it is only by focusing on the right policies that we can address it He proposes a detailed radical plan for creating a just economy where everyone can belong Sandbu demonstrates that the rising numbers of the left behind are not due to globalization gone too far Rather technological change and flawed but avoidable domestic policies have eroded the foundations of an economy in which everyone can participate and would have done so even with a much less globalized economy Sandbu contends that we have to double down on economic openness while pursuing dramatic reforms involving productivity regional development support for small and medium sized businesses and increased worker representation He discusses how a more active macroeconomic policy education for all universal basic income and better taxation of capital could work together for society's benefit Offering real answers not invective for facing our most serious political issues The Economics of Belonging shows how a better economic system can work for all

Handbook of Educational Psychology and Students with Special Needs Andrew J. Martin, Rayne A. Sperling, Kristie J. Newton, 2020-02-18 Handbook of Educational Psychology and Students with Special Needs provides educational and psychological researchers practitioners policy makers and graduate students with critical expertise on the factors and processes relevant to learning for students with special needs This includes students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder other executive function difficulties behavior and emotional disorders autism spectrum disorder intellectual disabilities learning disabilities dyslexia language and communication difficulties physical and sensory disabilities and more With the bulk of educational psychology focused on mainstream or typically developing learners relatively little educational psychology theory research measurement or practice has attended to students with special needs

As clearly demonstrated in this book the factors and processes studied within educational psychology motivation and engagement cognition and neuroscience social emotional development instruction home and school environments and more are vital to all learners especially those at risk or disabled Integrating guidance from the DSM 5 by the American Psychiatric Association and the International Classification of Diseases ICD 10 by the World Health Organization this book synthesizes and builds on existing interdisciplinary research to establish a comprehensive case for effective psycho educational theory research and practice that address learners with special needs Twenty seven chapters by experts in the field are structured into three parts on diverse special needs categories perspectives from major educational psychology theories and constructs relevant to special needs learning development and knowledge building Social Justice and Israel/Palestine Aaron J. Hahn Tapper, Mira Sucharov, 2019-06-24 This book critically assesses a series of complex and topical debates helping readers to make sense of the politics surrounding the Israeli Palestinian relationship Each chapter considers one topic represented by two or three essays offered in conversation with one another Together these essays advance different perspectives in some cases they are complementary and in others they are oppositional Topics include scholarly and activist interpretations of narratives in the context of Israel Palestine the concept of self determination for Jewish Israelis and Palestinians the debate over settler colonialism as an appropriate framework for interpreting the history of Israel Palestine and questions surrounding Jewish and Palestinian refugees and the impact of displacement among others Through these foundational and contemporary topics readers will be challenged to critically examine the strengths and weaknesses of each position in light of scholarly debates rooted in social justice and helped to gain a deeper understanding of the relationship between Israelis and Palestinians in order to see a path forward toward justice for all Regulating Tobacco, Alcohol and Unhealthy Foods Tania Voon, Andrew Mitchell, Jonathan Liberman, 2014-07-25 The need to reduce disability and premature deaths from non communicable diseases NCDs is increasingly engaging international organisations and national and sub national governments In this book experts from a range of backgrounds provide insights into the legal implications of regulating tobacco alcohol and unhealthy foods all of which are risk factors for NCDs As individual countries and the international community move to increase targeting of these risk factors affected industries are turning to national and international law to challenge the resulting regulations This book explores how the effective regulation of tobacco alcohol and unhealthy foods can be achieved within the context of international health law international trade and investment law international human rights law international intellectual property law and domestic laws on constitutional and other matters Its contributors consider the various tensions that arise in regulating NCD risk factors as well as offering an original analysis of the relationship between evidence and health regulation Covering a range of geographical areas including the Americas the European Union Africa and Oceania the book offers lessons for health and policy practitioners and scholars in navigating the complex legal fields in which the regulation of tobacco alcohol and unhealthy foods takes place Standard Catalog for

High School Libraries. Supplement, 1926 War and Revolution in South China Edward J. M. Rhoads, 2021-09-10 In War and Revolution in South China Edward Rhoads recounts his childhood and early teenage years during the Sino Japanese War and the early postwar years Rhoads came from a biracial family His father was an American professor while his Chinese mother was a typist and stenographer In the late 1930s and the 1940s the Rhoads family lived through the turbulent years in southern China and Hong Kong The book follows Rhoads childhood in Guangzhou his family's evacuation to Hong Kong his father's internment and repatriation to the United States and his and his mother's flight to Free China He recalls his reunion with family members in northern Guangdong Province in 1943 their retreat to China's wartime capital of Chongqing where his father worked for the American government and how they returned to Guangzhou after the war The Rhoads family then witnessed the socioeconomic recovery in the city and the regime change in 1949 The book ends with their departure from China to the United States in 1951 a year and a half after the Communist revolution The book fills an important gap in the scholarship by examining the impact of the Sino Japanese War in southern China from the perspective of one family Rhoads reveals that the war in this region while often neglected by scholars was in fact no less turbulent than it was in northern and central China He combines autobiography with serious historical research to reconstruct the lives of his family consulting a large number of archival documents private correspondence and scholarly literature to produce a rare study that is both scholarly and accessible This book is a very timely reminder that one should look at the experience of China during the Second Sino Japanese War and the Second World War from a regional perspective in order to understand the diverse historical experience of the people from different geographical ethnic cultural and social backgrounds Chi man Kwong Hong Kong Baptist University A pleasure to read and of compelling interest Edward Rhoads book explores the more benign side of the foreign influence in modern China the introduction of modern educational institutions The intriguing lens through which we look is his biracial family their multiple flights across southern China as refugees escaping war and their eventual expulsion from China Stephen Davies The University of Hong Kong The Quest for Equity in Chile's Higher Education María Verónica Santelices, Catherine Horn, Ximena Catalán, 2018-11-15 In Chile during the last forty years there have been important initiatives aimed at increasing equity in higher education including the private provision of tertiary education starting in 1980 the growing support provided by the state to low income students through financial aid the increasing importance of institutional financial aid a university admissions system that has made efforts to reduce the important weight standardized test scores have traditionally had in admissions decisions and institutional level programs implemented to broadened the admission of low income students to selective institutions This book seeks to describe the concurrent efforts undertaken both at the national and at the institutional level to increase equity in access to higher education and educational outcomes in Chile during the last four decades Taking stock of the accomplishments of Chile's higher education system is especially important at a time when social demands and political decisions seem to deeply question the road traveled The

Logic of Racial Practice Brock Bahler, 2021-02-08 The title of this collection The Logic of Racial Practice pays homage to the work of Pierre Bourdieu who coined the term habitus to name the pretheoretical embodied dispositions that orient our social interactions and meaningfully frame our lived experience The language of habit uniquely accounts for not only how we are unreflectively conditioned by our social environments but also how we responsibly choose to enact our habits and can change them Hence this collection of essays edited by Brock Bahler explores how white supremacy produces a racialized modality by which we live as embodied beings arguing that race and racism is performative habituated and enacted We do not regularly have to think about race since race is a praxis producing embodied habits that have become sedimented into our ways of being in the world and that instill within us racialized and racist dispositions postures and bodily comportments that inform how we interact with others The construction of race produces a particular bodily formation in which we are shaped to viscerally perceive through a racialized lens images words activities and events without any self reflective conceptualization and which we perpetuate throughout our day to day choices The contributors argue that eradicating racism in our society requires unlearning these racialized habitus and cultivating new anti racist habits Examining Identity in Sports Media Heather L. Hundley, Andrew C. Billings, 2010 Communication issues involving sports media permeate myriad levels of society These issues are important sources for learning and reinforcing social beliefs they are salient contexts for investigating issues of identity including ethnicity gender class sexual orientation ability disability and more Consequently sport and media inscribe numerous implicit and explicit ideologies that saturate our culture Using a wide variety of theoretical and methodological constructs for example surveys content analyses ethnographic research field work rhetorical approaches other appropriate quantitative or qualitative approaches Examining Identity in Mediated Sports examines various media including television film advertising print Web sites and nontraditional media to expose how the intersection of sport and media construct reinforce and or perpetuate perceptions of human identities This book investigates the numerous ways print electronic and digital media present issues of identity in sports coverage each chapter addresses media portrayals and or cultural representations of one or more form of identity ethnicity gender class sexual orientation ability disability etc as it relates to sport contributors both seasoned and up and coming scholars of sport represent a fine and diverse balance of intellectual ideologies Culture Wars in American Education Michael R. Olneck, 2024-06-03 Culture Wars in American Education Past and Present Struggles Over the Symbolic Order radically questions norms and values held within US Education and analyses why and how culture wars in American education are intense consequential and recurrent Applying the concept of symbolic order this volume elaborates ways in which symbolic representations are used to draw boundaries allocate status and legitimate the exercise of authority and power within American schooling In particular the book illustrates the terms of inclusion by which full membership in the national community is defined limited and contested It suggests that repetitive patterns in the symbolic order for example the persistence of the representation of an individualistic basis of American society and polity constrain the reach of progressive change The book examines the World War I era Americanization movement the World War II era Intercultural Education movement the late twentieth century Multicultural Education movement continuing right wing assaults on Ethnic Studies and Critical Race Theory in the first decades of the twenty first century and historical and contemporary conflicts over the incorporation of languages other than Standard English into approved instructional approaches In the context of continuing culture wars in the United States and across the globe this book will be of interest to graduate students and scholars in critical studies of education history of education sociology of education curriculum theory Multicultural Education and comparative education as well as to educators enmeshed in contemporary tensions and conflicts
