Global Literary Studies Diana Roig-Sanz, Neus Rotger, 2022-12-05 While the very existence of global literary studies as an institutionalised field is not yet fully established the global turn in various disciplines in the humanities and the social sciences has been gaining traction in recent years This book aims to contribute to the field of global literary studies with a more inclusive and decentralising approach. Specifically, it responds to a double demand: the need for expanding openness to other ways of seeing the global literary space by including multiple literary and cultural traditions and other interdisciplinary perspectives in the discussion; and the need for conceptual models and different case studies that will help develop a global approach in four key avenues of research: global translation flows and translation policies; the post 1989 novel as a global form; global literary environments; and a global perspective on film and cinema history. Gathering contributions from international scholars with expertise in various areas of research, the volume is structured around five target concepts: space, scale, time, connectivity, and agency. We also take gender and LGBTQ perspectives as well as a digital approach.

The academic book publishing sector has a key function when it comes to knowledge production and dissemination across various disciplines. For researchers, scholars, and educators, the process of moving from concept to publication is rarely a trivial task and often involves the use of imagination, perseverance, and teamwork. Publishing a monograph, an edited volume, or a textbook or turning your thesis into a book can be painful. This book will help you demystify the world of academic book publishing, offering authors a guide to navigating the complicated process with success. This guide aims to provide authors with the knowledge of tools and resources needed to publish a book that reflects their research. If you want a sneak peek into the workings of scholarly publishing, it features advice from senior authors, publishers, and academics with an intimate familiarity with the academic publishing process. Divided into chapters, the book covers the major elements of the publishing journey: steps to writing the proposal; advice on working with publishers; and challenges of the current moment, like open access and new fields of study. The first step to getting published is learning to write a scholarly manuscript or book proposal. Writers need to know how to present their research in front of potential publishers. It necessitates then not just a firm grasp on the work in question but a facility for conveying the relevance of the work and its potential to make a difference. Therefore, it is very important to tread carefully through the relationship with the publishers, as the success of publishing partnerships relies heavily on trust, collaboration, and shared vision for the book. Open access publishing for scientific journals has played an increasingly important role in the ever-evolving academic world. There are new ways for authors to disseminate their work and increase the accessibility of research through open access. It is an exciting time to be an author, but it is also a challenging time in terms of financial viability and finding new publishing models. This section deeply studies the influence of open access so that authors can better develop books around it. Many students work years on their theses, and getting them published can greatly aid their academic careers.
