

CROCODILE

Crocodiles are one of the oldest animal groups: they have existed for around 230 million years. They come from the dinosaurs.

Crocodiles get very old: they can live 80 to 100 years. Crocodiles live in tropical regions - Africa, India, Southeast Asia, Australia, South America. They are reptiles and can live both on land and in water. They especially like fresh water - estuaries, swamps and lakes. They stay in the water most of the time. They come ashore to sunbathe.

The animals have a long body with a horn shell and four legs. The tail serves as a rudder when swimming.

There are 60 to 70 sharp teeth in their mouths, which fall out over and over again and are replaced by new ones throughout their lives.

Crocodiles are hunters: they are very fast. They eat meat. Their prey are fish, waterfowl and other small animals. Large crocodiles also eat animals such as zebras and antelopes.

Adult crocodiles are so strong that no other animal can harm them. However, humans hunt crocodiles, which is why some species are threatened with extinction.
