Animal Reintroductions The Arabian Oryx In Oman:

Animal Reintroductions Mark R. Stanley Price,1989-09-14 This book explores the reintroduction of the oryx back into the wild from zoo populations Animal re-introductions : the arabian oryx in Oman Mark R. Stanley Price,1989

Antelopes David P. Mallon,Steven Charles Kingswood,2001 Antelope herds numbering in the tens of thousands formerly occurred across the steppes and semideserts of Eurasia and India but these have nearly all been reduced to fractions of their earlier size antelope populations are now fragmented across the region and during recent decades several species have disappeared altogether Threats include hunting loss of habitat population fragmentation inadequate protected area coverage poorly developed administrative structures under resourcing of conservation programmes and lack of enforcement of existing legislation Rising human population growth and economic development constantly increases pressure on land and natural resources There is a consequent need for integrated rural development and community based conservation projects which have the full participation of local people at the planning and execution stages This publication Part 4 of the Global Antelope Survey covers 37 countries in the region and actions to conserve antelope populations are listed in each country report

Reintroduction of Fish and Wildlife Populations David S. Jachowski,Joshua J. Millspaugh,Paul L. Angermeier,Rob Slotow,2016-09-13 Reintroduction of Fish and Wildlife Populations provides a practical step by step guide to successfully planning implementing and evaluating the reestablishment of animal populations in former habitats or their introduction in new environments In each chapter experts in reintroduction biology outline a comprehensive synthesis of core concepts issues techniques and perspectives This manual and reference supports scientists and managers from fisheries and wildlife professions as they plan reintroductions initiate releases of individuals and manage restored populations over time Covering a broad range of taxonomic groups ecosystems and global regions this edited volume is an essential guide for academics students and professionals in natural resource management Zoo and Aquarium History Vernon N. Kisling, Jr,2022-07-11 Wild animals have been housed in zoos and aquariums for 5 000 years fascinating people living in virtually every society Today these institutions are at a new milestone in their history This second edition of Zoo and Aquarium History takes the reader on a journey through the transition of private collections to menageries to zoos then zoological gardens and more recently conservation centers and sanctuaries Under the direction of Vernon N Kisling an expert in zoo history an international team of authors has thoroughly updated the only comprehensive global history of animal collections menageries zoos and aquariums The resulting book documents the continuum of efforts in maintaining wild animal collections from ancient civilizations through today explaining how modern zoos have developed their mission statements around the core aims of conservation education research and recreation This new edition pulls together regional information including new chapters on zoological gardens of Canada Latin America China Israel the Middle East and New Zealand along with the cultural aspects of each region to provide a foundation upon which further research can be based It presents a chronological listing of the world's zoos and aquariums and features many never before published photographs. Sidebars present supplementary information on pertinent personalities, events, and wildlife conservation issues. The original Appendix has been expanded to include over 1,200 zoos and aquariums, providing an invaluable resource. This is an extensive chronological introduction to the subject, highlighting the published and archival resources for those who want to know more.

Conservation and Mobile Indigenous Peoples Dawn Chatty, Marcus Colchester, 2025-05-01. The second edition of this remarkable volume updates the immense advances in policy and soft international law with regards to the rights of mobile indigenous peoples in conservation. The contributors to this book examine the interface between conservation and indigenous communities who are forced to move or settle elsewhere to accommodate environmental policies and biodiversity concerns. The case studies investigate successful and not so successful community managed projects in Africa, the Middle East, South and South Eastern Asia, Australia, and Latin America.

Reintroduction Biology John G. Ewen, Doug P. Armstrong, Kevin A. Parker, Philip J. Seddon, 2012-01-30. This book aims to further advance the field of reintroduction biology beyond the considerable progress made since the formation of the IUCN SSC Reintroduction Specialist Group. Using an issue-based framework that purposely avoids a structure based on case studies, the book's central theme is advocating a strategic approach to reintroduction where all actions are guided by explicit theoretical frameworks based on clearly defined objectives. Issues covered include husbandry and intensive management, monitoring and genetic and health management. Although taxonomically neutral, there is a recognised dominance of bird and mammal studies that reflects the published research in this field. The structure and content are designed for use by people wanting to bridge the research management gap, such as conservation managers wanting to expand their thinking about reintroduction-related decisions or researchers who seek to make useful applied contributions to reintroduction.

Conservation of Endangered Species in Captivity Edward F. Gibbons Jr., Barbara S. Durrant, Jack Demarest, 1995-08-31. This multi-disciplinary approach to conservation of endangered species in captivity is organized taxonomically and by scientific discipline. The seven taxonomic groups included are invertebrates, fish, reptiles and amphibians, birds, marine mammals, primates, and other mammals. Within each taxonomic group, four scientific disciplines are explored: conservation, reproductive physiology, behavior, and captive design. Conservation chapters summarize the status of the taxonomic group both in the wild and in captivity. Reviewed in the reproductive physiology chapters are anatomy, endocrinology, and physiology for females and males of the taxonomic group. In the section on behavior, the functions of captive animal research, the methods used, and the problems encountered are discussed. And in examining captive design, the authors provide a general historical outline of the philosophies, trends, and scientific issues for the targeted taxonomic group.

Antelope Conservation Jakob Bro-Jorgensen, David P. Mallon, 2016-08-08. Antelopes constitute a fundamental part of ecosystems throughout Africa and Asia, where they act as habitat architects, dispersers of seeds, and prey for large carnivores. The fascination they hold in the human mind is evident from prehistoric rock paintings.

and ancient Egyptian art to today's wildlife documentaries and popularity in zoos. In recent years, however, the spectacular herds of the past have been decimated or extirpated over wide areas in the wilds, and urgent conservation action is needed to preserve this world heritage for generations to come. As the first book dedicated to antelope conservation, this volume sets out to diagnose the causes of the drastic declines in antelope biodiversity and, on this basis, identify the most effective points of action. In doing so, the book covers central issues in the current conservation debate, especially related to the management of overexploitation, habitat fragmentation, disease transmission, climate change, populations, genetics, and reintroductions. The contributions are authored by world-leading experts in the field, and the book is a useful resource to conservation scientists and practitioners, researchers, and students in related disciplines, as well as interested lay people.

Implementing the World Heritage Convention Evan Hamman, Herdis Hølleland, 2023-01-17 As the World Heritage Convention enters its 50th year, questions are being raised about its failures and successes. This topical book draws together perspectives across law and heritage research to examine the Convention and its implementation through the novel lens of compliance.

Zoo and Aquarium History Vernon N. Kisling, 2000-09-18 As one of the world's most popular cultural activities, wild animal collections have been attracting visitors for 5,000 years. Under the direction of Vernon N. Kisling, an expert in zoo history, an international team of authors has compiled the first comprehensive global history of animal collections, menageries, zoos, and aquariums.

Carnivore Behavior, Ecology, and Evolution John L. Gittleman, 2019-05-15 Because carnivores are at the top of the food chain, their status is an important indicator of the health of the world ecosystem. They are intensely interesting to zoologists and uniquely intriguing to the general public. Devoted primarily to terrestrial carnivores, this volume focuses on such themes as carnivore reintroduction programs and the ethics of studying carnivores, drawing examples from a variety of species. The need to evaluate new conceptual ideas and empirical data inspired this volume of Carnivore Behavior, Ecology, and Evolution, a complement to the original book. In the eight years since publication of the first volume, conservation has emerged as a thematic imperative. The study of carnivores has become even more important in raising and resolving crucial biological problems. Differential rates of mortality in the giant panda and other endangered carnivores are now known to influence dispersal and life history patterns basic to these species' survival. Reintroduction efforts of the black-footed ferret and the red wolf are establishing essential guidelines for preservation and management of endangered species. Studies of the African lion and the dwarf mongoose illustrate the power of new genetic techniques of DNA fingerprinting for understanding the evolution of social behavior.

Biodiversity Conservation and Habitat Management - Volume II Francesca Gherardi, Claudia Corti, Manuela Gualtieri, 2009-12-29 Biodiversity Conservation and Habitat Management is a component of Encyclopedia of Natural Resources Policy and Management in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems (EOLSS), which is an integrated compendium of twenty-one encyclopedias. Biodiversity is declining worldwide at a very unprecedented rate as a complex response to several human-induced changes in the global environment. The magnitude of these changes is so large and their effects are so strongly linked to the altered ecosystem processes and to human use of natural resources that biodiversity loss is today perceived as one of the most important issues that humankind should face with extreme urgency. Disseminating information raising awareness and propelling concern within a diversified target audience—general public, schools, local authorities and government agencies—are also essential to develop shared responsibility and to encourage collaborative efforts and compliance. This has been the main objective of Biodiversity Conservation and Habitat Management. The Theme on Biodiversity Conservation and Habitat Management provides the essential aspects and a myriad of issues of great relevance to our world in eight major topics of discussion and is focused on 1 History and Overview of Biodiversity Conservation and Protected Areas 2 Management of Forests and other Wooded Habitats 3 Management of Savannahs and Other Open Habitats 4 Management of Wetlands 5 Management of Tourism and Human Recreation Pressure 6 Conservation Strategies Species Action Plans and Translocation 7 Captive Breeding and Gene Banks and 8 Eradication and Control of Invasive Species. These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences: University and College students, Educators, Professional practitioners, Research personnel and Policy analysts, managers and decision makers and NGOs.

Global Biodiversity World Conservation Monitoring Centre, 2012-12-06. Global Biodiversity is the most comprehensive compendium of conservation information ever published. It provides the first systematic report on the status, distribution, management and utilisation of the planet's biological wealth.

Reintroduction of Top-Order Predators Matt W. Hayward, Michael Somers, 2009-04-13. Large predators are among the most threatened species on the planet and ways of conserving them in the face of increasing human populations and associated resource requirements are becoming critical. This book draws upon the experiences of some of the world's foremost large carnivore specialists to discuss the numerous issues associated with reintroducing large predators back into their natural habitats. Reviews of internationally renowned reintroduction programs for wolves, European lynx and African wild dog reveal the successes and failures of these actions. Experts on tigers, snow leopards and jaguars contend that there are other conservation options of higher priority that will ensure their security in the long term. Other experts discuss more theoretical aspects such as whether we know enough about these species to be able to predict their behavioural or ecological response to the reintroduction process. Social, economic, political and genetic considerations are also addressed.

Dodo Jeremy JC Mallinson, Anna TC Feistner, Integrating People and Wildlife for a Sustainable Future John A. Bissonette, Paul R. Krausman, 1995. Conservation in the 21st Century: Gorillas as a Case Study T.S. Stoinski, H. D. Steklis, P.T. Mehlman, 2009-07-09. Like other fields of science, wildlife conservation is a changing field. Threats facing wild populations of apes and other species say 20 years ago are likely not the same ones most pressing today and even where threats have remained unchanged, more effective means of addressing them may be available now. Conservation scientists have learned from many years of experience and both theoretical and technological advances today provide conservation tools not available in the past. This volume identifies the primary problems faced in conserving wild populations of gorillas throughout Africa pinpointing new approaches to solving these problems and outlining the increased role that zoos can play in gorilla conservation It includes expertise of field scientists in a variety of disciplines to discuss current conservation threats novel approaches to conservation and potential solutions Against Extinction William (Bill) Adams,2013-06-17 Conservation in the 21st century needs to be different and this book is a good indicator of why Bulletin of British Ecological Society Against Extinction tells the history of wildlife conservation from its roots in the 19th century through the foundation of the Society for the Preservation of the Wild Fauna of the Empire in London in 1903 to the huge and diverse international movement of the present day It vividly portrays conservation s legacy of big game hunting the battles for the establishment of national parks the global importance of species conservation and debates over the sustainable use of and trade in wildlife Bill Adams addresses the big questions and ideas that have driven conservation for the last 100 years How can the diversity of life be maintained as human demands on the Earth expand seemingly without limit How can preservation be reconciled with human rights and the development needs of the poor Is conservation something that can be imposed by a knowledgeable elite or is it something that should emerge naturally from people s free choices These have never been easy questions and they are as important in the 21st century as at any time in the past The author takes us on a lively historical journey in search of the answers Encyclopedia of the World's Zoos Catharine E.
