Dilemmas of Culture in African Schools Cati Coe, 2005-11 In working to build a sense of nationhood Ghana has focused on many social engineering projects the most meaningful and fascinating of which has been the state's effort to create a national culture through its schools As Cati Coe reveals in Dilemmas of Culture in African Schools this effort has created an unusual paradox while Ghana encourages its educators to teach about local cultural traditions those traditions are transformed as they are taught in school classrooms The state version of culture now taught by educators has become objectified and nationalized vastly different from local traditions Coe identifies the state's limitations in teaching cultural knowledge and discusses how Ghanaians negotiate the tensions raised by the competing visions of modernity that nationalism and Christianity have created She reveals how cultural curricula affect authority relations in local social organizations between teachers and students between Christians and national elite and between children and elders and raises several questions about educational processes state society relations the production of knowledge and the making of Ghana's citizenry Junior Graphic Mavis Kitcher (Mrs), 2014-07-09 Daily Graphic Yaw Boadu-Ayebofoh, 2005-01-18

Understanding West Africa's Ebola Epidemic Ibrahim Abdullah,Ismail Rashid,2017-10-15 From 2013 to 2015 over 11 000 people across West Africa lost their lives to the deadliest outbreak of the Ebola virus in history Crucially this epidemic marked the first time the virus was able to spread beyond rural areas to major cities overturning conventional assumptions about its epidemiology With backgrounds ranging from development to disease control the contributors to this volume some of them based in countries affected by the Ebola epidemic consider the underlying factors that shaped this unprecedented outbreak While championing the heroic efforts of local communities and aid workers in halting the spread of the disease the contributors also reveal deep structural problems in both the countries and humanitarian agencies involved which hampered the efforts to contain the epidemic Alarminglly they show that little has been learned from these events with health provision remaining underfunded and poorly equipped to deal with future outbreaks Such issues they argue reflect the wider challenges we face in tackling epidemic disease in an increasingly interconnected world
