Recent Development in Energy Conversion Systems Sunday Olayinka Oyedepo,Fidelis Ibiang Abam,Olusegun David Samuel,Oluseyi Olanrewaju Ajayi,Abimbola Patricia Popoola,Diana-Andra Borca-Tasciuc,2024-03-15 In this industrial and technological age energy plays a principal role in sustainable development This is connected to issues regarding availability production processes utilization and environmental impact Due to the increased rate of population growth the energy demand in the entire world is getting to the level that it may not be sustained in the nearest future if drastic action is not taken to address the situation especially from research and development perspectives None of the millennium development goals MDGs can be completed without considerable improvements in the quality and quantity of energy services in developing countries according to the United Nations Development Programme UNDP Based on this fact UNDP is making efforts especially in developing countries to ensure that people have access to sustainable sources of clean reliable and affordable energy since every aspect of human development is highly impacted by this vital resource collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region

Robert Bergman,2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development. It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industry/academia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR. It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development. A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government, industry and academia work intimately, intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development. Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large, meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located.^{1,2} They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic, social, cultural and political environment. The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials, business and labour leaders, civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise. The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies. Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge, experience and self-interests. Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively, creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region.

Polymer Based Bio-nanocomposites Chandrasekar Muthukumar, Senthil Muthu Kumar Thiagamani, Senthilkumar Krishnasamy, Rajini Nagarajan, Suchart Siengchin, 2022-03-28. This book gives a comprehensive overview of bionanocomposites, a class of materials that consist of a biopolymer matrix which is embedded with nanoparticles and natural fibres as reinforcement to produce novel material and achieve superior physico-chemical and mechanical properties. The book looks into the synthesis of various forms of nanoparticles, the fabrication methods and the characterization of bionanocomposites. It also includes topics related to the sustainability and life prediction of bionanocomposites such as biodegradability, recycling and re-use. An important aspect in the designing of bionanocomposites includes computational modeling and the suitability of the bionanocomposites in various applications is presented. This book appeals to students, researchers and scientists looking to gain fundamental knowledge, know about recent advancements in the research on bionanocomposites and their applications.

papers presented at the International Conference on Business and Management Dynamics ICBMD held from 7 to 8 September 2016 at African Pride Crystal Hotel and Spa in Cape Town As grey literature the proceedings are the contributions made by researchers at the conference and are considered the written record of the work that was presented to fellow conference delegates Methodology The methodology used varies from researcher to researcher but are suitable for the studies conducted Thus on the one hand studies that were subjective in nature used the interpretive paradigm where the qualitative approach adopted made use of the interview method to collect data On the other hand studies that were objectively inclined adopted the positivist philosophy and used survey questionnaires to collect data However there were some academic papers which used mixed methodology because of the nature of the study Whatever methodology used adhered to the ethos of the philosophies underpinning the methodology Contribution made to scholarship The articles come from individual researchers and each article in the proceedings is unique Mostly there is no general argument leading from one contribution to the next However it is interesting to note that in the area of economic performance it was evident that real exchange rate and net foreign direct investment contribute more towards innovations in economic growth With regard to human capital development papers presented evidence that there exists a definite need to explore the phenomenon of personal branding as limited scientific academic research has been done within the field of personal branding or on elements of the topic Thus the outcome argues that personal branding has an influence on leadership style which in turn impacts on organisational performance and related hygiene factors Furthermore it was demonstrated that current methods or strategies for enforcing institutionalisation of knowledge sharing within an organisation have not been successful and as such new strategies are needed to reinforce efforts to nurture and invigorate the institutionalisation of knowledge sharing within an organisation With regard to technology and big data impact on organisational performance it was evident that system performance memory consumption and CPU utilisation can be used as criteria to compare and evaluate big data technologies to improve organisational performance Most of the articles contribution reemphasised technology education and training as a means of digitising business and improving effectiveness Target audience The target readership is academic researchers and business leaders who require access to the latest developments in the fields of economics information management business education development studies social sciences and technology It is also for policymakers and other stakeholders who need a better understanding of the impact of new developments on existing policies and regulations for their review or amendment

Journal of Scientific and Industrial Research ,2014 Routledge Handbook of the Sociology of Higher Education James E. Côté,Sarah Pickard,2022-03-21 Higher education has come under increasing public scrutiny in recent years assailed with demands for greater efficiency accountability cost reduction and above all job training Drawing upon examples from across the world with an emphasis on Anglo American higher education systems this handbook employs sociological approaches to address these pressing concerns The second edition is thoroughly updated and adds several new chapters to shed further light on the transformations wrought by the interrelated processes of massification vocationalization and marketization that have swept through universities in the wake of neoliberal reforms introduced by governments since the 1980s The handbook explores recent developments in higher education systems and policy as well as the everyday experiences of students and staff and ongoing problems of inequality and diversity within universities In doing so the chapters address a number of current issues concerning the legitimacy of higher educational credentials from the continuing debate regarding traditional pedagogies and the role of universities in social class reproduction to more recent concerns about standards in mass systems Collectively this handbook demonstrates that the sociology of higher education has the potential to play a leadership role in improving the myriad higher education systems around the world that are now part of an interrelated set of subsystems replete with both persistent problems and promising prospects This book is therefore necessary reading for a variety of stakeholders within academia as well as professionals and policy makers interested in understanding higher education and the acute challenges it faces
