Higher Education, Community Engagement and Entrepreneurship in Southern Africa I. G. Govender, 2021-02-24

This volume explores the pressing issues of entrepreneurship education and development in Southern Africa. It discusses the various roles of higher education institutions in enhancing entrepreneurship in localised communities and provides a systematic solution for improving the Southern African economy by realising the importance of empowering the youth with entrepreneurial skills. In addition, successful development requires effective policies and contemporary approaches to both community engagement and entrepreneurship management. The book uses different Southern African case studies to discuss the various issues and innovations in entrepreneurship in the country.

A composite index of quality of life for the Gauteng city-region: a principal component analysis approach Talita Greyling, The improvement of the quality of life of all South Africans is high on the agenda at national, The National Planning Commission 2012 and regional levels of government. The Gauteng Planning Commission 2012 and it is therefore important to develop an instrument that can measure this multi-dimensional concept. The need therefore exists for a composite index of quality of life with the ability to both track the quality of life of people over time and compare it across different demographic and socio-economic groups. Such a measure could identify those demographic and socio-economic groups with low levels of quality of life and also highlight dimensions that need to be prioritised in order to improve the wellbeing of people. In South Africa, there are a limited number of quality of life indices and measures of wellbeing. Indices that measure wellbeing nationally include the Quality of Life Index of Moller and Schlemmer 1983, the Living Standard Measure (LSM) Index produced by the South African Audience Research Foundation (SAARF) 2013, the South African Development Index of the South African Institute of Race Relations 2011 and the Everyday Quality of Life Index Higgs 2007. The following indices measure wellbeing at a regional level: the Quality of Metropolitan City Life in South Africa Index Naude et al 2009, the Non-Economic Quality of Life Index at Sub-National Levels Rossouw Naude 2008 and the Quality of Life Index of the Gauteng City Region Observatory (GCRO) 2011. Although these quality of life indices make distinctive contributions to the study field, the focus of these studies is often to measure only objective or subjective quality of life or only economic or non-economic quality of life rather than all of the above. Furthermore, many of the indices use equal weighting which does not necessarily reflect the priorities of the communities.

Advances in Web-Based Learning - ICWL 2017 Haoran Xie, Elvira Popescu, Gerhard Hancke, Baltasar Fernández Manjón, 2017-09-13 This book constitutes the proceedings of the 16th International Conference on Web-Based Learning (ICWL 2017) held in Cape Town, South Africa, in September 2017. The 13 revised full papers presented together with 9 short papers and 3 poster papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 56 submissions. The papers are organized in topical sections on Inquiry-Based Learning and Gamification, Learning Analytics, Social Media and Web 2.0-based Learning Environments, Assessment and Accessibility in Higher Education, Open Educational Resources and Recommender Systems, and Practice and Experience Sharing Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman, 2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industry-academia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government industry and academia work intimately intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located 1 2 They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic social cultural and political environment The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials business and labour leaders civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge experience and self interests Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region Municipal Water Pollution Control Abstracts for 1974 Joanne S.
