Timmons Roberts, Saleemul Huq, Victoria Hoffmeister, 2018-04-09 The Paris Framework for Climate Change Capacity Building pioneers a new era of climate change governance performing the foundational job of clarifying what is meant by the often ad hoc one off uncoordinated ineffective and unsustainable practices of the past decade described as capacity building to address climate change As an alternative this book presents a framework on how to build effective and sustainable capacity systems to meaningfully tackle this long term problem Such a reframing of capacity building itself requires means of implementation The authors combine their decades long experiences in climate negotiations developing climate solutions climate activism and peer reviewed research to chart a realistic roadmap for the implementation of this alternative framework for capacity building As a result this book convincingly makes the case that universities as the highest and sustainable seats of learning and research in the developing countries should be the central hub of capacity building there This will be a valuable resource for students researchers and policy makers in the areas of climate change and environmental studies

Yearbook of International Organizations 2014-2015 (Volume 3) Union Of International Associations, Union of International Associations, 2014-08-20 The Yearbook of International Organizations provides the most extensive coverage of non profit international organizations currently available Detailed profiles of international non governmental and intergovernmental organizations IGO collected and documented by the Union of International Associations can be found here In addition to the history aims and activities of international organizations with their events publications and contact details the volumes of the Yearbook include networks between associations biographies of key people involved and extensive statistical data Volume 3 allows readers to locate organizations by subjects or by fields of activity and specialization and includes an index to Volumes 1 through 3

Structuring People Eva Marie Schindler, 2021-12-09 Participation has become an orthodoxy in the field of development an essential element of projects and programmes This book analyses participation in development interventions as an institutionalised expectation a rationalized myth and examines how organisations on different levels of government process it At least two different objectives of participation are appropriate and legitimate for international organisations in the field the empowerment of local beneficiaries and the achievement of programme goals Both integrate participatory forums into the organisational logic of development interventions Local administrations react to the institutionalised expectation with means ends decoupling where participatory forums are implemented superficially but de facto remain marginalised in local administrative processes and activities The book furthermore provides a thick description of the organisationality of participation in development interventions Participatory forums are shown to be a form of partial organisation They establish an order in the relationship between administrations and citizens through the introduction of rules and the creation of a defined membership At the same time this order is found to be fragile and subject to criticism and negotiation
