

When the back roads and trails beckon beyond where the pavement ends, answer the call in a GMC Jimmy . . . the track maker.

Carry your cargo on board or pull a trailer to the campsite. Whichever it is, Jimmy is ready. The 2-wheel drive model is available with a GVWR of 6,050 lbs., and the 4-wheel drive Jimmy is rated at 6,200 lbs. GVWR. The Jimmy is not only rugged enough to handle the back roads and trails, it's comfortable, too, and can handle up to five passengers.

For trailering, available factory-installed equipment provides a Gross Combination Weight Rating up to 11,500 lbs. to handle trailers weighing up to 6,000 lbs. on the highway.

Jimmy comes standard with the removable fiberglass reinforced plastic rear roof section or available easy-on and -off convertible top with roll up sides. Either way, there's an assorted selection of available interior colors, fabrics and trims to go with Jimmy's 15 exterior colors. The High Sierra interior, shown below, includes new high back bucket-type seats in handsome Saddle custom cloth and vinyl trim. (All-vinyl open high-grain trim also is available.) Both custom cloth and vinyl and all-vinyl seats come in Blue, Buckskin and Red colors with Red being a new offering for the cloth and vinyl trim. Mandarin Orange is also available for the all-vinyl trim. The wall-to-wall floor covering is color keyed and extends to the rear, including wheelhouse, when the new available fold-up rear passenger seat is ordered.

Available High Sierra model, ZY5 paint and P46 wheels.

Jimmy with available High Sierra trim.

The Jimmy's interaxle differential compensates for differences in speed between the front and rear axles while constantly delivering power to both.

For normal 4-wheel drive operation, on or off road, the lever is placed and remains in the "high" (H) position. For low traction surfaces the "H Loc" position is used.

The "L" position permits the interaxle differential to operate in the low reduction range to deliver power to both axles. When driving on extremely low traction surfaces, the "L Loc" position is used.

In the "N" position (neutral), the transfer case is disengaged from both axles.

CONVENTIONAL 4-WHEEL DRIVE

Four-wheel drive Jimmys equipped with manual 3- or available 4-speed transmissions use the conventional 4-wheel drive system. This system includes a 2-speed transfer case which provides 4-wheel drive in either "high" (H) or "low" (L) range. 2-wheel drive, a power takeoff opening and a lockout for freewheeling front hubs.

CORROSION PROTECTION

This involves the use of pre-coated steel in side outer panels, side door opening frames, side door outer panels, tailgate assembly used with the available convertible top, and windshield frame. Front door glass channels, tire tool stowage retainer and the radiator grill lower panel are made from galvanized steel to resist corrosion in these areas. Protective coating is added to inner rocker panels, inner surfaces of front fender panels, inner surfaces of the hood panels at the front and the outer surfaces of radiator supports.
