1. Calculate the chi-square test statistic. The formula for the chi-square test statistic is:
$$\chi^2 = \sum \frac{(O - E)^2}{E}$$
where O is the observed frequency and E is the expected frequency.
2. Determine the degrees of freedom. The degrees of freedom are calculated as:
$$df = (r - 1)(c - 1)$$
where r is the number of rows and c is the number of columns.
3. Find the critical value. The critical value is found in the chi-square distribution table for the given degrees of freedom and significance level.
4. Compare the test statistic to the critical value. If the test statistic is greater than the critical value, we reject the null hypothesis.
5. Make a conclusion. If we reject the null hypothesis, we conclude that there is a significant association between the variables. If we fail to reject the null hypothesis, we conclude that there is no significant association between the variables.
