108 Structure of the Mammalian Heart

Key ideas: Mammals have a four-chambered heart, divided into left and right halves, and acting as a double pump. The heart is the center of the human circulatory system. It is a hollow, muscular organ made up of four chambers (two atria and two ventricles) that alternately fill and empty of blood, acting as a double pump. The left side pumps the oxygenated blood to the rest of the body, and the right side pumps the deoxygenated blood to the lungs.

The heart is not a spherical organ. Although the quantity of blood pumped by each side is the same, the ratio of the two surfaces is closer to 1:2 than 1:1. The right side is larger and more rounded than the left side.

- 1. Right atrium: receives deoxygenated blood in the anterior and posterior vena cavae.
- 2. Right ventricle: pumps deoxygenated blood to the lungs via the pulmonary artery.
- 3. Left atrium: receives oxygenated blood returning to the heart from the lungs via the pulmonary vein.
- 4. Left ventricle: pumps oxygenated blood to the body and back to the heart via the aorta.

1. In the schematic diagram of the heart below, label the four chambers and the main vessels entering and leaving them. Then complete the diagram of blood flow, color large colored circles to mark the direction of flow of the blood.

Key Idea

Each activity has a key idea summarizing its primary focus. It helps students to understand where the activity's emphasis lies.

Comprehensive, engaging diagrams

Engaging, high quality diagrams provide a visual focus whilst delivering important information in an accessible format.
