The Coevolution of IDO1 and AhR in the Emergence of Regulatory T Cells in Mammals Ursula Grohmann, Paolo Puccetti, 2016-01-28 Indoleamine 2,3-dioxygenase IDO1 is an ancestral enzyme that initially confined to the regulation of tryptophan availability in local tissue microenvironments is now considered to play a wider role that extends to homeostasis and plasticity of the immune system Thus IDO biology has implications for many aspects of immunopathology including viral infections neoplasia autoimmunity and chronic inflammation Its immunoregulatory effects are mainly mediated by dendritic cells DCs and involve not only tryptophan deprivation but also production of kynurenines that act on IDO DCs thus rendering an otherwise stimulatory DC capable of regulatory effects as well as on T cells The aryl hydrocarbon receptor AhR is a ligand operated transcription factor originally recognized as the effector mediating the pathologic effects of dioxins and other pollutants However it is now well established that AhR activation by endogenous ligands can produce immunoregulatory effects The IDO1 mechanism appears to have been selected through phylogenesis primarily to prevent overreacting responses to TLR recognized pathogen associated molecular patterns and only later did it become involved in the response to T cell receptor recognized antigens As a result in mammals IDO1 has become pivotal in fetomaternal tolerance at a time when regulatory T cells emerged to meet the same need namely protecting the fetus IDO1 and regulatory T Treg cells may have then coevolved to broaden their function well beyond their initial task of protecting the fetus such that in acquired immunity IDO1 with its dual enzymic and signaling function has turned into an important component of the peripheral generation and effector function of regulatory T cells AhR in turn which has a role in regulatory T cell generation is presumed to have evolved from invertebrates where it served a ligand independent role in normal development processes Evolution of the receptor in vertebrates resulted in the ability to bind structurally different ligands including xenobiotics and microbiota derived catabolites Considering the inability of invertebrate AhR homologs to bind dioxins the adaptive role of the AhR to act as a regulator of xenobiotic metabolizing enzymes may have been a vertebrate innovation to later acquire an additional immune regulatory role by coevolutionary pressure in mammals by IDO1 and regulatory T cells Thus an entirely new paradigm in immunology and more specifically in immune tolerance is the coevolution of three systems namely the IDO1 mechanism AhR driven gene transcription and T cell regulatory activity that originating from the initial need of protecting the fetus in mammals have later turned into a pivotal mechanism of peripheral tolerance in autoimmunity transplantation and neoplasia

Pattern Recognition Receptors and Cancer Anton G. Kutikhin,Arseniy E. Yuzhalin,2015-10-08 The group of pattern recognition receptors PRRs includes families of Toll like receptors TLRs NOD like receptors NLRs C type lectin receptors CLRs RIG I like receptors RLRs and AIM 2 like receptors ALRs Conceptually receptors constituting these families are united by two general features Firstly they directly recognize common antigen determinants of virtually all classes of pathogens so called pathogen associated molecular patterns or simply PAMPs and initiate immune response against them via specific intracellular signaling pathways Secondly they recognize endogenous ligands since they are usually released during cell stress they are called damage associated molecular patterns DAMPs and hence PRR mediated immune response can be activated without an influence of infectious agents So pattern recognition receptors play the key role performing the innate and adaptive immune response In addition many PRRs have a number of other vital functions apart from participation in immune response realization The fundamental character and diversity of PRR functions have led to amazingly rapid research in this field Such investigations are very promising for medicine as immune system plays a key role in vast majority if not all human diseases and the process of discovering the new aspects of the immune system functioning is rapidly ongoing The role of Toll like receptors in cancer was analyzed in certain reviews but the data are still scattered This collection of reviews systematizes the key information in the field
