Smart Transitions in City Regionalism Tassilo Herrschel, Yonn Dierwechter, 2018-03-22 In recent years smartness has risen as a buzzword to characterize novel urban policy and development patterns As a result of this debates around what smart actually means both theoretically and empirically have emerged within the interdisciplinary arenas of urban and regional studies This book explores the changes in discourse rationality and selected responses of smartness through the theme of transition The concept of transition provides the broader context and points of reference for adopting smartness in reconciling competing interests and agendas in city regional governance Using case studies from around the world including North America Europe and South Africa the authors link external regime transition in societal values and goals with internal moves towards smartness While reflecting the growing integration of overarching themes and analytical concerns this volume further develops work on smartness smart growth transition city regionalism governance and sustainability Smart Transitions in City Regionalism explores how smart cities and city regions interact with conventional state structures It will be of great interest to postgraduates and advanced undergraduates across urban studies geography sustainability studies and political science

Grassroots Environmental Governance Leah Horowitz, Michael Watts, 2016-12-08 Grassroots movements can pose serious challenges to both governments and corporations However grassroots actors possess a variety of motivations and their visions of development may evolve in complex ways Meanwhile their relative powerlessness obliges them to forge an array of shifting alliances and to devise a range of adaptive strategies Grassroots Environmental Governance presents a compilation of in depth ethnographic case studies based on original research Each of the chapters focuses specifically on grassroots engagements with the agents of various forms of industrial development The book is geographically diverse including analyses of groups based in both the global North and South and represents a range of disciplinary perspectives This allows the collection to explore themes that cross cut specific localities and disciplinary boundaries and thus to generate important theoretical insights into the complexities of grassroots engagements with industry This volume will be of great interest to scholars of environmental activism environmental governance and environmental studies in general What Shall We Tell the Children? Stuart J. Foster, Keith A. Crawford, 2006-04-01 The pages of this book illustrate that as instruments of socialization and sites of ideological discourse textbooks are powerful artefacts in introducing young people to a specific historical cultural and socioeconomic order Crucially exploring the social construction of school textbooks and the messages they impart provides an important context from within which to critically investigate the dynamics underlying the cultural politics of education and the social movements that form it and which are formed by it The school curriculum is essentially the knowledge system of a society incorporating its values and its dominant ideology The curriculum is not our knowledge born of a broad hegemonic consensus rather it is a battleground in which cultural authority and the right to define what is labelled legitimate knowledge is fought over As each chapter in this book illustrates curriculum as theory and practice has never been and can never be divorced from the ethical economic political and cultural conflicts of society which impact so deeply upon it We cannot escape the clear implication that questions about what knowledge is of most worth and about how it should be organized and taught are problematic contentious and very serious Designing for Digital Transformation.
