Implementing your solution and delivering the company's services and products

While I implemented my plan for Neuton & Neuton Retail, I was required to oversee & manage several sections of their store, from the Stockroom, main shop & first floor Office. While I considered these sections, I needed to understand how each staff member tied into the business, along with their importance and their requirements to do their jobs. The Staff & Customers all come together to keep the business alive, so it was imperative that they were equipped, trained, or treated well. First, I researched the IT Service requirements of each staff member & the customer, understanding what they need to do their job and the priority it had within the business. I then delved deeper into these requirements, learning about the services they require and explaining in greater detail what they will do and how the business will use these things such as Computers, Software, anti-theft systems, EPOS Terminals etc. Following this I moved onto looking at the Information & Data requirements of the business concluding that there was a lot of info & data needed & used by the business to operate and help grow the business/make money. Alongside this I also looked at the Hardware & Software service options and the management of infrastructure of users. For the service options, I collected all the hardware and software the business will be using and suggested places the business could find these services to use certain software or buy certain hardware. When I researched the management of infrastructure and users, I analysed what staff members will be doing what on the network, and what equipment/software they will need to use that is connected to the network. All staff should be trained in good cyber security, to minimize the risk of data protection legislation being breached.

Managing and supporting staff

While I learned about the business hierarchy and its staff roles, I learned which positions had certain IT Requirements to be able to complete their jobs. The staff all had differing requirements, from the stockroom assistants needing computers, stock & invoice management software and access to communication software. Shop assistants required things such as EPOS Terminals for taking payment, receipt printers, barcode scanners, stock control software or register screens. The Owners required 2 computers, a server to run the network off and access to the Office 365 suite of apps. They also needed access to financial software, stock control software & a printer. There could be internal/external threats to the business, but this will be able to be minimized by training the staff in good cyber security, to ensure that they are not the cause of a breach in the network and put their selves in breach of the computer misuse act or data protection legislation. A threat could come from inside the business, such as employee sabotage and this could again cause a leak of information the business
