Decolonising Geography? Disciplinary Histories and the End of the British Empire in Africa, 1948-1998 Ruth Craggs, Hannah Neate, 2023-10-16 DECOLONISING GEOGRAPHY This book presents an extraordinarily sensitive account of geography's histories in five African countries subjected to British colonial rule. Craggs and Neate draw together political and imaginative processes of decolonisation through an innovative biographical approach that humanizes and enlivens the story of our academic discipline. It will be an invaluable resource for those seeking a deeper understanding of decolonisation, its recent trajectories and far-reaching implications on the African continent. Shari Daya Affiliate Associate Professor in Environmental and Geographical Science, University of Cape Town. By placing the experiences, ideas and practices of African geographers in the center of their analyses, Craggs and Neate provide an unprecedented account of historical and contemporary decolonizing struggles within Geography and the academy. This book should be required reading for all those looking to decolonize the discipline and dislodge it from its Global North histories, institutions and ideologies. Mona Domosh, Professor of Geography, The Joan P and Edward J Foley Jr 1933 Professor, Dartmouth College. This meticulous work explores how colonialism, decolonization and postcolonialism shaped African geography and geographers. It sheds light on efforts to Africanize the discipline, a process which I was both witness to and a participant in. Stanley Okafor, Professor of Geography, Retired, University of Ibadan. How did a generation of academic geographers engage with constitutional decolonisation during the end of the British empire in Africa? In Decolonising Geography: Disciplinary Histories and the End of the British Empire in Africa 1948-1998, Ruth Craggs and Hannah Neate explore how the teaching, research, administration and activism of geographers in Africa shaped the discipline and the post-colonial geopolitics of the continent. The authors follow the professional lives of individual geographers to provide fresh insights into decolonisation in the former British Empire in Africa, drawing from extensive archival research and more than 40 oral history interviews with geographers in Ghana, Nigeria, South Africa, Tanzania and the UK. Decolonising Geography is a must-read for any reader in the UK and Africa with an interest in the relationships between geography and decolonisation.

Geopolitics, Geography and Strategic History Geoffrey Sloan, 2017-02-17 This work explains the course of international politics from the rebirth of the German Empire to the rise of China, with particular though not exclusive reference to spatial relationships.

The Building of Civil Europe 1951-1972 Stefanie Pukallus, 2018-11-27 This book argues that early European Commission officials envisaged an integrated civil Europe from the outset. Largely overlooked is the fact that between 1951 and 1972 there was a group of European Commission and before that the High Authority officials who wished to build a Civil Europe to sit alongside an economic and political Europe. This Civil Europe was it was hoped to become home to a European citizenry equipped with a European civil consciousness that complemented their national and local loyalties. To this end, these officials pioneered a series of civil initiatives designed to begin the process of building Civil Europe. This book analyses three such civil initiatives.

the building of the first European School the European Community's participation in Expo 58 and the production of the European Community's own documentaries From the start Europe was designed and conceived of in terms of a European general civil public and not solely in terms dictated by economic and political interests

Africa as a Living Laboratory Helen Tilley, 2011-04-15 Tropical Africa was one of the last regions of the world to experience formal European colonialism a process that coincided with the advent of a range of new scientific specialties and research methods Africa as a Living Laboratory is a far reaching study of the thorny relationship between imperialism and the role of scientific expertise environmental medical racial and anthropological in the colonization of British Africa A key source for Helen Tilley's analysis is the African Research Survey a project undertaken in the 1930s to explore how modern science was being applied to African problems This project both embraced and recommended an interdisciplinary approach to research on Africa that Tilley argues underscored the heterogeneity of African environments and the interrelations among the problems being studied While the aim of British colonialists was unquestionably to transform and modernize Africa their efforts Tilley contends were often unexpectedly subverted by scientific concerns with the local and vernacular Meticulously researched and gracefully argued Africa as a Living Laboratory transforms our understanding of imperial history colonial development and the role science played in both

A Comparative Political Ecology of Exurbia Laura E. Taylor, Patrick T. Hurley, 2016-05-26 This book is about politics and planning outside of cities where urban political economy and planning theories do not account for the resilience of places that are no longer rural and where local communities work hard to keep from ever becoming urban By examining exurbia as a type of place that is no longer simply rural or only tied to the economies of global resources e g mining forestry and agriculture we explore how changing landscapes are planned and designed not to be urban that is to look function and feel different from cities and suburbs in spite of new home development and real estate speculation The book s authors contend that exurbia is defined by the persistence of rural economies the conservation of rural character and protection of natural ecological systems all of which are critical components of the contentious local politics that seek to limit growth Comparative political ecology is used as an organizing concept throughout the book to describe the nature of exurban areas in the U S and Australia although exurbs are common to many countries The essays each describe distinctive case studies with each chapter using the key concepts of competing rural capitalisms and uneven environmental management to describe the politics of exurban change This systematic analysis makes the processes of exurban change easier to see and understand Based on these case studies seven characteristics of exurban places are identified rural character access local economic change ideologies of nature changes in land management coalition building and land use planning This book will be of interest to those who study planning conservation and land development issues especially in areas of high natural amenity or environmental value There is no political ecology book quite like this neither one solely focused on cases from the developed world in this case the United States and Australia nor one that specifically harnesses different case studies from multiple areas to develop a central organizing perspective of landscape change

the idea of Israel as a nation state has developed within Zionist and Israeli discourse over the past eight decades Nadav G Shelef focuses on the changing ways in which the main nationalist movements answered three distinct questions in their private and public ideological articulations between 1925 and 2005 Where is the Land of Israel Who ought to be Israeli What should the Zionist national mission be Framed within broader debates about how and why changes in foundational definitions of the nation occur Shelef s analysis centers on the mechanisms of ideological change and then subjects them to empirical scrutiny He thus moves beyond the common but problematic assumptions that such transformations must be either a rare rational adaptation to traumatic shock or a relatively constant product of manipulation by power hungry elites He finds that nationalist movements including radical and religious fundamentalist ones can and do change cardinal components of their ideological beliefs in both moderating and radicalizing directions These changes have more to do with the unguided consequences of engagement in day to day politics than with strategic reaction to new realities the use of force or the changing incentives of leaders Engaging with some of the most contentious debates about the nature of Israeli nationalism and the geographic religious and ethnic definition of the state of Israel Shelef has made signal contributions to our understanding of Middle East politics and of the ideological underpinnings of nationalism itself Israel: the First
