Migrant Representations Peter Leese, 2022-01-15 Migrant Representations pairs twenty four carefully selected histories in order to compare how migrants themselves Irish labourer Lithuanian refugee or Indian doctor and their social investigators capture in words and images defining private and historical moments These comparative case studies from the 1780s to the 2000s explore how migrants constructed their own narratives of mobility and settlement through procedures of reflecting remembering and recording Moreover these studies examine how speech writing and picture were used for instance by a missionary social scientist or activist to make outside representations of the migrant Such life stories social surveys and pictures emerge as alternative archives Leese s transnational cultural history considers life story forms and their uses the tension between external surveillance and self observation the power of narratives to afford legibility and acknowledgement Leese argues that historically and in the present first person migrant stories and outsider investigations create a continuous charged exchange

Revisiting the Fundamentals of the Free Movement of Persons in EU Law Niamh Nic Shuibhne,2023-08-06 How free is the free movement of persons Why does the law that enables it need to be revisited This collection of essays curated by Claire Kilpatrick and Joanne Scott for the European University Institute s 2020 Academy of European Law addresses these questions Across different examples migration posted workers social security Brexit and Union citizenship each chapter revisits the categories that have become entrenched in EU law on the free movement of persons and the boundaries that have been constructed as a result Do they still represent meaningful differences Are they valuable compass points or inhibitors of progress Do they ensure comprehensive or fragmented protection of the person In reconsidering the fundamentals of EU free movement law the book draws attention to tensions that have not yet been properly resolved between appropriate difference and problematic discrimination or between the mythology and the experienced reality of free movement for the people who actually move Its chapters consider how the free movement of persons connects to and is shaped by the EU legal spaces beyond free movement as well as by the space beyond law The contributors do not shy away from provoking a rethink of core principles They interrogate these fundamentals and the changing objectives of the free movement of persons to take up the challenge of doing it better of making it both more protective of people and more resilient in ethical systemic and sociological terms
