Monetary and Capital Markets Department,2019-10-28 This technical note presents risk analysis of banking and insurance sector in France The assessment is based on stress tests which simulate the health of banks insurers under severe yet plausible counterfactual adverse scenarios The stress tests reveal that banks and insurers would be resilient against simulated shocks although some challenges remain French banks have improved their capitalization and asset quality however profitability remains challenged The report also highlights that profitability is pressured on both the income and expense sides Banks ability to generate higher interest income is constrained by persistently low interest rates and market businesses including trading activities have contracted in recent years Growth at risk GaR analysis shows that the biggest contributing factors to the risk of growth are cost of funding and stock market prices Financial conditions continue to tighten gradually since mid 2017 though the overall conditions remain accommodative Risks stemming from loans to households seem to be contained over the short to medium term horizon given relatively strong households balance sheets no evidence of significant misalignment in house prices social safety nets and fixed interest rates Clearinghouse Review ,1991 Ebook: Life-Span Development Santrock,2016-09-16 Ebook Life Span Development The Automated Design of Materials Far From

Equilibrium Marc Z. Miskin, 2015-11-13 This thesis conceptualizes and implements a new framework for designing materials that are far from equilibrium Starting with state of the art optimization engines it describes an automated system that makes use of simulations and 3D printing to find the material that best performs a user specified goal Identifying which microscopic features produce a desired macroscopic behavior is a problem at the forefront of materials science This task is materials design and within it new goals and challenges have emerged from tailoring the response of materials far from equilibrium These materials hold promising properties such as robustness high strength and self healing Yet without a general theory to predict how these properties emerge designing and controlling them presents a complex and important problem As proof of concept the thesis shows how to design the behavior of granular materials i e collections of athermal macroscopic identical objects by identifying the particle shapes that form the stiffest softest densest loosest most dissipative and strain stiffening aggregates More generally the thesis shows how these results serve as prototypes for problems at the heart of materials design and advocates the perspective that machines are the key to turning complex material forms into new material functions

Decent rural employment in different farming systems in Sub-Saharan Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2016-06-01 This paper analyses how the relationship between decent rural employment and agricultural productivity vary across production systems The focus is on sub Saharan Africa taking Ethiopia and Tanzania as case studies A latent class stochastic frontier approach is applied to identify different production systems and technologies for a sample of farms in the two countries Subsequently we estimate the efficiency of production for these systems and investigate in how far decent rural employment indicators explain different levels of efficiencies across different latent classes
